Gordon Wins—Mercantile 'Loses'

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — A five-year club hanging over Mercantile Bank has emerged as the Sharp-Gordon deal to cope with the troublesome U.S.-owned bank, and Walter Gordon has emerged the winner over Mitchell Sharp in their personal fight. The deal, disclosed and approved in the Commons Tuesday, caused Conservative Marcel Lambert to say: "This is a sentence of death over Mercantile."

Bryce Mackasey, a Liberal MP who went to New York to work out an earlier deal with the Mercantile's owners, First National City Bank, said: "I do not know what effect this might have on me as a politician, but I do not play dirty politics."

Mr. Mackasey voted against his party on the amendment that placed the club over Mercantile. He did so, he said, because it was "diametrically opposed" to what was accepted unanimously by the finance committee two weeks ago.

The deal is sure to raise a hurricane of protest in Citi-bank's executive suite in New York. The amendment was moved by Liberal backbencher Milton Klein of Montreal, who is not a member of the finance committee that labored over the draft bill for months.

The draft bill, as approved by the committee, gave Citi-bank five years, until December of 1972, to unload 75 per cent of the Mercantile shares to Canadians.

Lambert: 'Death'

Mackasey: 'Dirty'

Secret Peace Effort Disclosed

Johnson and Ho Sour Pen Pals

Ho said no... to Johnson invitation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson made an unsuccessful personal appeal to Ho Chi Minh last month for direct, unpublicized peace talks between the U.S. and North Vietnam, it was disclosed Tuesday.

Johnson returned from a two-day Vietnam strategy conference on Guam Tuesday night and acknowledged what he called "regrettable rebuffs to a genuine effort to move toward peace" in his exchange with Ho and the North Vietnamese leader's contacts with other world figures.

"Nevertheless, we shall persevere in our efforts to find an honorable peace, until it is achieved, we shall continue to do our duty in Vietnam," he said.

NEVER SUBMIT In what was believed to have been the first direct exchange between the two leaders, Johnson told Ho at the start of the Lunar New Year bombing pause in Vietnam Feb. 8 that he could not accept Hanoi's demand for an unconditional halt in U.S. air raids.

Ho rejected Johnson's message the day after the air strikes resumed Feb. 13. "Vietnam will never submit to talks under the threat of bombing," he said.

TOKYO (UPI) — North Vietnam, commenting on Ho's rejection of Johnson's offer for direct peace talks, charged Tuesday that the American proposal was evidence of "double-dealing" by the United States.

Hanoi charged that "the U.S. imperialists carried out a very cruel and perfidious double-dealing policy while they kept claiming for peaceful talks and unconditional negotiations."

"This letter sent by U.S. President Johnson to President Ho Chi Minh is an evidence of this double-dealing policy of the U.S.," Hanoi said.

Ships Collide

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — An unidentified U.S. navy vessel and the Israeli freighter Deganya collided in the Atlantic Tuesday night 30 miles east of Cape Henry. The Deganya radioed her port side was damaged but neither ship needed assistance.

Nader before U.S. Senate committee

Nader Wants More Canada 'Needs More'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ralph Nader accused the U.S. government's traffic safety agency Tuesday of moving with "agonizing timidity" and said it has issued inadequate safety standards for 1968 cars.

He assailed the automobile industry and the national agency alike in testimony prepared for the Senate commerce committee.

"With very few exceptions," Nader said, "these standards did not advance the level of existing safety beyond what would have been the case without the law."

"Among the worst performing vehicles on the road today are ones which can meet or exceed the standards set for the 1968 models," he said.

Nader, whose book Unsafe at Any Speed made him a central figure in the drive for passage of the law, said industry pressures "set the temperature for the kind of standards which issued forth with such agonizing timidity."

OTTAWA — The Commons justice committee Tuesday urged the federal government to establish a super safety board to set and enforce standards for virtually all cars sold in Canada.

The public board will be charged with the responsibility for developing "at the earliest possible date" safety standards of design, construction and equipment for all cars made or imported in Canada.

"Vehicles not complying with such standards would not be permitted to be used in interprovincial or international transportation," the committee said in a report to the Commons.

Committee chairman J. P. Cameron (L.-High Park) later explained this meant cars not incorporating the safety features would be prevented from moving from province to province.

After 55-Vote Day

FORCES UNITY OVER HURDLE

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons defence committee after 55 formal votes Thursday night approved the armed forces unification bill. (See also Page 2.)

The committee then went immediately into closed session to discuss its report to the Commons, expected to be made today when the bill is returned to the House with amendments.

The Commons must still give the legislation clause-by-clause study and third and final reading. The bill then goes to the Senate.

Will Take Months

Gordon Churchill, former Conservative defence minister, said the bill "might" get through the Commons in May or June. But he proposed instead the government put it in "cold storage."

Defence Minister Hellyer said it will take at least four months before the bill can be proclaimed law after it clears Parliament.

It would take this long to draft new regulations based on the bill.

The committee held 55 sittings since Feb. 7 and heard 23 major witnesses. Serving officers who testified were for the bill, retired officers were against.

The Conservatives fought the bill every inch of the way, voting against even the preamble and the title.

The vote on the bill as a whole was 14 to 8 with Harold Winch (NDP—Vancouver East) and Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood) voting in favor with 12 Liberals.

The Conservatives objected to each clause in the 16-clause bill which mentioned a single force and deleted references to the navy, army and air force.

Our Man In Britain

I'm for Fluorides Bennett Says

Premier Bennett said Tuesday he will recommend government action to promote fluoridation of B.C. water supplies. "I am a strong supporter of fluoridation," the premier told the House during debate on a Liberal amendment that would allow fluoridation referendums to pass on a 50 per cent majority.

"I will recommend the department of education give more education on fluoridation," he said. "I will recommend fluoridation be placed before a committee of the legislature for study at the next session."

However, the House defeated the amendment after Mr. Bennett said, "If people can introduce something like this on a 50 per cent majority they can turn around and repeal it on a 50 per cent majority just as easily."

Driving Charge Change

Government Backs Down

Criticism from both sides of the House forced the government to make an on-the-floor amendment to a government bill in the legislature Tuesday.

The opposition vigorously attacked a proposed amendment to the Motor Vehicle Act which would have inserted the words "the justice may convict for an offence under this act disclosed by the evidence taken at the trial in substitution for a conviction under this Section (Section 138 of the Motor Vehicle Act)."

Gordon Dowding (NDP—Burnaby Edmonds) said the change would entitle a judge to hear a case and make a change in a charge under the act to suit the evidence he had heard.

Allan Williams (L.—West Vancouver-Howe Sound) said it was a "catch-all" amendment.

Ernie Lecours (SC—Richmond) said the careless driving section "makes no allowance for human error."

"We should be trying to protect the public a bit more," Mr. Lecours said.

NO IMPROVEMENT

Attorney-General Bonner said the intention had been to improve the act. But because of the criticisms the section concerned would be withdrawn.

"It's obvious from this discussion here we're not improving it," Mr. Bonner said.

However, other amendments to the act, including provisions prohibiting television receivers in the front seats of cars, and a new regulation which would prevent persons under 18 from owning cars without parental consent, received third and final reading.

Canadian Record 'Astounding'

Child Death Rate Worst

OTTAWA (CP) — More children are killed per capita in Canada than in any other country in the world, a medical professor told delegates to the maternal and child health conference Tuesday.

Dr. John Read of Queen's University said the accident death rate was 118 for every 100,000 children in the one-to-four age group.

This "astounding" record was the worst for any country in which reliable statistics were available. Czechoslovakia was second with a rate of 103, but these were the only two countries with a rate more than 100.

Dr. Helen Wallace of the University of California school of public health told doctors, nurses and social workers attending the conference more Canadian children died from accidents than any other cause.

This included traffic mishaps, falls, burns and poisonings. Oral contraceptives now were high on the list of accidental poisoning agents. The injuring agent was usually something attractive to the child — such as a bright pill — and children were usually "acutely hungry" at the time they suffered injury.

The most dangerous times in the day were one-hour periods just before meal times, when the child was hungry, tired and hyperactive, and the mother preoccupied with food preparations.

Dr. Wallace said 95 per cent of accidents could be prevented by closer supervision. Safety regulations such as improved labelling of poisons are necessary.

She suggested a centre where both mother and children could receive medical care. With a pediatrician, an obstetrician and two public health nurses, it could offer pre-natal, post-natal, birth control and interconceptual clinics for mothers.

New Premier Under Arrest

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (UPI) — Troops arrested Sierra Leone's new Prime Minister Siaka Probyn Stevens Tuesday only minutes after he had taken his oath of office and placed the west African nation under martial law, Freetown radio said Tuesday.

The reports indicated military commander Brig. David Lansana had taken control of the 28,000-square-mile country, sandwiched between the republics of Guinea and Liberia on the Gulf of Guinea.

Stevens leads the All People's Congress Party which defeated the ruling Sierra Leone People's Party of former prime minister Sir Albert Margai in elections last weekend.

Stevens' party won 32 of the 66 contested seats, Margai's won 27 and independents took seven.

Governor-General Sir Henry Lightfoot-Boston, who appoints the other 12 House of Assembly members, advised Stevens to form a coalition government with Margai but Stevens refused.

Lansana, an old Stevens foe, made the arrest as Stevens left the swearing-in ceremony and immediately proclaimed martial law.

Thundering Snows Kill 11

ZURICH (UPI)—The heaviest March snowfall in 16 years Tuesday sent avalanches thundering into Swiss alpine valleys, crushing homes and disrupting traffic. At least nine people were killed and three injured. The avalanches struck a wooden shed on the Oberalp Pass where seven workers employed on a dam construction site had sought refuge. A rescue team flown in by helicopter dug them out — five of them dead and two injured.

NGERDAL, Norway — Two Swedish skiers, a man and a woman, perished in an avalanche close to the Swedish border near here.

Grave Idea Began With City Scouts

GOOD DEED: It sounded fine when Ottawa finally decided it would care for the graves of all the Fathers of Confederation.

But who knows how they got the idea? It all came from a group of Boy Scouts.

Lloyd Jermain runs a Rover Scout crew in the Fairfield area. His boys got the idea of cleaning up the grave of John Hamilton Gray in Ross Bay Cemetery. He is the only Father of Confederation buried west of the Great Lakes.

The Rovers made the cleanup job their centennial project and finally Ottawa woke up and made the idea a national project.

ROAR LIONS: If the Victoria Steelers have trouble selling tickets, they certainly don't have any generating rumors.

Latest gem to make the rounds has B.C. Lions stars Willie Fleming and Tom Hinton set to join the Steelers. Stranger things have happened.

THE SWITCH: Fred Hill, who starred in that great temperance melodrama, The Drunkard, at the old Secret Coffee House, is now promoting the demon wine.

He is busy trying to interest the world in home winemaking on behalf of the Wine Art stores which sell the raw materials.

SCOTS AWAY: George Steele is a Scot. He played for St. Andrew's of Vancouver when the club won the Dominion soccer championship. He now lives here and is still an ardent soccer fan, so it was natural he sit on the St. Andrew's bench to share the grief when they lost to O'Keefe's over the weekend.

The event had a sunny ending for George, because he got into conversation with St. Andrew's official Dave Walls. After a bit of Scots banter they both found out they had been in the same class at the same school at Baillieston, near Glasgow, more than 40 years ago.

Dave Wall's father played for Albion Rovers in Scotland's second division and his uncle for the great Glasgow Rangers.

HE'S RIGHT: One city chef is in complete agreement with Herb Capozzi. The MLA said most of the pie in B.C. is lousy.

The chef, who naturally wants to be nameless, said most of it, including the stuff he sells, is mush.

Few restaurants make their own pie, anyhow. It comes from a pie factory across the water.

NEW LOOK: Now that the Reserve Navy has four gate vessels in its growing fleet, it might be appropriate to call it the swimming service.

OTHER SWINGERS: If it makes anyone who is not going to Hawaii on holiday right now feel better, take heart from the fact that some of the islanders are coming here.

Les Parkinson has booked a half dozen golfers from the sunny isles to the Empress Hotel for the golf tournament April 10 to 15.

WHISKERS GALORE: If the services ever do get to the point of unification, how will the pundits rewrite the manuals of military regulations?

Will sailors be allowed to wear handlebar mustaches? Can soldiers, if soldiers as such still exist, sport full beards?

Will an aircraftman second-class draw a rum ration? Can a member of the women's services qualify for a dry martini?

FIAT OUT: Lawyer-businessman David Hummel is flat on his back, physically, not financially.

A skiing trip on top of a bout of violent physical exercise has shuffled the discs in his back.

Last Witness Makes Dramatic Extra Plea

By DAVE MCINTOSH
OTTAWA (CPI) — Canada's top military man from 1960 until July made an 11th-hour appeal in the Commons defence committee Tuesday that plans for armed forces unification be halted for at least a few years.

Air Chief Marshal Frank Miller, retired chief of defence staff and the last scheduled witness before the committee, offered his plea in dramatic and emotional circumstances.

AND ADJOURNED
Grant Deachman (L-Vancouver Quadra, committee chairman, had thanked Air Chief Marshal Miller for his testimony and adjourned the committee.

The 35-year veteran of the RCAF whispered to Mr. Deachman that he wanted to say something more and the chairman called departing members back to their seats.

Everybody expected that the retired officer, who also served as deputy defence minister from 1955 to 1960, wanted to thank the committee for hearing him.

PRAYSE FORCES
This Air Chief Marshal Miller did. But then he went on: "I have been honored to serve with the Canadian forces. They are outstanding representatives of Canada."

A few Liberal members applauded. Air Chief Marshal Miller said he is convinced the armed forces are embarked on an imaginative course with integration of the command structure.

But, he said, his voice shaking, the next step—doing away with the navy, army and air force—would "cause the loss of a lot of people we can't afford to lose."

MAYBE NATURAL
Perhaps after the lessons of integration had been learned a single service might be a natural and non-argumentative step.

He would not close the book on unification at some time in the future. But integration must be tried and working properly.

Hellyer Tells A Bit

OTTAWA (CPI) — The St. Patrick's Day appearance of three servicemen on Parliament Hill in dark green uniforms was authorized by Defence Minister Hellyer and Gen. Jean Allard, chief of defence staff, the Commons was told Tuesday.

Mr. Hellyer gave the information but he declined to tell Opposition Leader Diefenbaker whether the uniforms represent the government's intended walking-out dress for the proposed single service.

Gordon Churchill (PC-Winnipeg South Centre), former Conservative defence minister, asked the cost of "this propaganda."

Mr. Hellyer replied that the uniform tests are not costly. Uniforms were being developed in limited quantities and, since all three services had previously been developing new uniforms of each service, the single uniform would mean a saving of money.

Unification should not be "thrown into the machinery" to "slow the gears."

The former defence chief's last-minute appeal was an unusual if not unique move on Parliament Hill.

WITHOUT CONSENT
Air Chief Marshal Miller also said in reply to questions that there is an "element of compulsion" in the proposed automatic transfer of sailors, soldiers and airmen into the new single force without their consent.

He said he feels keenly that in a democratic system support in voluntary military forces is only fair to ask servicemen whether they want to join the new force.

He was of arguing the legality of the bill but dealing with "the sense of the rightness and fitness of things."

Your Good Health

Tinnitus Worst at Night

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Would you write about tinnitus? What causes this constant ringing in the head when brain tumor and ear conditions have been ruled out? Is there any medication that would reduce the sound?

I presume it is an incurable condition. In three years I have become so accustomed to it that it doesn't bother me at all during the day but it is very uncomfortable in the silence of the night. I presume many people suffer from the same trouble. I am 50. — M.B.G.

You'd be surprised how many people have tinnitus — technically a tinkling sound in the ears, but the sounds vary so greatly (hissing, bubbling, clicking, rattling, and dozens of others) that if you put them all together they'd be a discordant symphony of racket.

In your case you have already ruled out two of the dangerous causes. High blood pressure is another, and that already must have been considered by your doctor.

Among the lesser causes are wax, various drugs and medications, too much coffee or nicotine, some chemicals (quinine is one). Disorders of the inner ear (vestibulitis) can be a factor. And sometimes you just can't find any reason, but the noises are still present.

Your case, M.B.G., of not minding the noises in daytime but being annoyed at night is not unusual. The daytime sounds mask the tinnitus. A solution which has worked for many is to keep a clock with a rather loud tick near your bed, or if you have a radio or record player which will turn off automatically, leave it playing softly while you go to sleep. Such soporific sounds can take the place of racket.

Dear Dr. Molner: My family has a close relative in the hospital with cancer and tuberculosis. We come in close contact with her nearly every day and she wants us to kiss her goodbye. How much danger is there of getting cancer ourselves? What precautions can we take? — MRS. A.G.

There is no danger of cancer from that.

The TB is another matter. If it is an active case, both kissing and close contact should be avoided. If it is an arrested case, then you need not worry.

TALK TO DOCTOR

My advice, and I strongly urge you to follow it, is to talk to your relative's doctor, find out from him whether the TB is active, follow his instructions as to how much contact is permissible, and tell him of this relative's desire to be kissed. We can see why she wishes it, but if she has active TB the doctor will impress upon her the fact that such kisses can transmit TB to you, her loved ones.

Moscow Plans More Hanoi Arms Aid

LONDON (UPI) — The men in the Kremlin and their east European allies are reluctantly preparing for new emergency aid shipments to North Vietnam, including modern missiles and jet fighters, Communist diplomatic sources said Tuesday.

The East European sources said Moscow and the other Communist capitals are "deeply perturbed" by the threat of U.S. escalation of the Vietnam war and see no alternative but to provide more assistance to Hanoi.

One major problem, however, is how to transport the supplies to Hanoi since Red China is virtually blocking the passage of Soviet arms deliveries through Chinese territory or interfering in a degree which makes Moscow reluctant to use the Trans-China route.

The alternative is the sea route which is becoming increasingly hazardous because of the risk of a direct clash with American air and naval forces, the sources said.

They said a new and enlarged aid-for-Hanoi program will probably be discussed and coordinated during the scheduled Prague meeting of Communist leaders next month.

But discussions were said to be already under way through bilateral channels.

What Moscow apparently has in mind is the supply of more up-to-date surface-to-air missiles and other modern anti-aircraft weapons.

There also is talk of more MIGs for Hanoi as more Communist Vietnamese pilots and personnel — trained in Russia — are becoming available.

But Moscow still is anxious to steer clear of direct involvement and the idea of making "volunteers" available remains in cold storage "for the time being".

These diplomatic reports followed a warning in Moscow Monday night by Premier Kosygin of the dangers of escalation of the war in Vietnam.

Kosygin said then that "American aggression" would meet "with a worthy rebuff of the heroic people of Vietnam and bring about increasing support of their friends."

Milk Strike Cuts Supply

CHICAGO (AP) — Milk from American farms and stores was given away and ruined Tuesday — sixth day of the National Farmers Organization's milk-withholding action.

Governor Warren P. Knowles of Wisconsin said there has been a sharp reduction in the number of reports of violence and vandalism in his state — one of 25 involved in the withholding action.

Farmers are seeking two more cents a quart for their milk. They now generally receive eight to 10 cents.

NFO President Oren Lee Staley said meetings with unnamed dairies are going on.

Staley also said the available milk supply is being cut.

Sheriff's deputies escorted milk-haulers in several counties in Wisconsin.

A dairy farmer near Union City, Pa., said vandals broke a valve on a storage tank and drained 1,800 pounds of milk.

FED TO HOGS

NFO members near Columbus, Ind., bought 300 gallons of processed milk and fed it to their hogs.

Others in Terre Haute, Ind., purchased 300 quarts in supermarkets and passed out free glasses of milk in the county courthouse.

Fuel oil was poured into several tank trucks in Delaware county, Ohio, ruining thousands of pounds of milk.

PRICE UP

Three farmers dumped 13,000 pounds of milk near Patoka, Ill.

Harold Cope, marketing director of the Pure Milk Association in Chicago, was asked what would happen to consumers if the price to milk producers should go up two cents.

"I guess the price would go up two cents," he replied.

Deposed King Lashes Out At Successor

BEIRUT (LAT) — Former King Saud of Saudi Arabia launched a bitter attack Monday on his brother, King Faisal, using the powerful "Voice of the Arabs" radio in Cairo.

Saud strongly intimated he would return soon to his native land and put it once again on the true Arab path — from which he said it had strayed.

"Saudi Arabia should return to the Arab ranks and work with the United Arab Republic and the resolutions of the Arab summit meeting," the bespectacled former oil monarch said.

Cong Lose Major Battle

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong guerrillas launched and lost Tuesday their biggest offensive operation of the year in South Vietnam, a four-hour effort to take an American artillery position in a jungle clearing near the Cambodian frontier.

About 500 troops of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division's 3rd Brigade repelled assault by an estimated 2,500 black-clad troops of the Viet Cong's crack 272nd Regiment. With the help of warplanes and a reinforcing armored column, the U.S. troops blasted the enemy survivors into retreat toward Cambodia.

UNITS MAULED

Correspondents reported from the battle site that two units in the defensive perimeter — a 45-man infantry platoon and a squad of 12 — had been severely mauled in the attacks, which opened at dawn.

The Americans were running low on ammunition when a column of 113 armored vehicles, including 33 tanks, clanked to the rescue.

Spokesmen said at least 423 Communist dead were left behind in the action. There was no estimate of how many dead and wounded the Viet Cong may have carried away.

American losses in the fighting were set at 60 dead and 109 wounded.

Quebecers Angered

OTTAWA (CP) — Nearly 1,000 militant Quebec farmers descended on Parliament Hill Tuesday to press their demand for higher milk subsidies.

The dairy farmers jammed the largest conference room in the Parliament Buildings for a meeting with five cabinet ministers and about 40 Quebec MPs.

Their leaders argued in earthy language that they live in hardship because of rising production, transport and living costs. They demanded a guaranteed price of $5 a hundred-weight for milk sold at processing plants.

ISSUE OF $475,000,000 (OR THEREABOUTS) NON-CALLABLE GOVERNMENT OF CANADA BONDS DATED APRIL 1, 1967

Bank of Canada is authorized by the Minister of Finance to receive subscriptions for a loan, to be issued for cash as follows:

- and
- 6 year 6 month 5% bonds due October 1, 1973
Issue price: 98 1/2%
Yielding about 5.21% to maturity
Interest payable October 1 and April 1
Denominations: $1,000, $5,000, $25,000, $100,000 and $1,000,000
- and
- 23 year 1 month 5 1/2% bonds due May 1, 1990
Issue price: 97.00%
Yielding about 5.48% to maturity
Interest payable May 1 and November 1
One month's interest payable May 1, 1967
Denominations: $500, $1,000, $5,000, $25,000, and $100,000.

The Minister of Finance reserves the right to accept or reject in whole or in part any subscription and to allot a total of not less than 90% (i.e. $315,000,000) and not more than 110% (i.e. $385,000,000) of the above amount of the 1968 and 1973 maturities.

Bank of Canada has agreed to acquire a minimum of $115,000,000, open as to maturity, of the 4 1/2% Bonds due April 1, 1968 and the new 5% Bonds due October 1, 1973 and a minimum of $35,000,000 of the new 5 1/2% Bonds due May 1, 1990.

Proceeds of the offering will be used to redeem $170,000,000 of Government of Canada 4% Bonds due April 1, 1967 and $155,000,000 of Government of Canada 4 1/2% Bonds due April 1, 1967 and for general purposes of the Government of Canada, including advances to the Canadian National Railway Company in connection with the retirement of $72,300,000 of Canadian National Railway Company 4 1/2% Bonds also due April 1, 1967.

The new 5% Bonds due October 1, 1973, are an addition to $275,000,000 of 5% Bonds due October 1, 1973 dated February 1, 1965. The new 5 1/2% Bonds due May 1, 1990, are an addition to $225,000,000 of 5 1/2% Bonds due May 1, 1990, dated May 1, 1964, July 1, 1964 and September 1, 1965.

The new issues will be dated April 1, 1967 and will bear interest from that date. Principal and interest are payable in lawful money of Canada. Principal is payable at any Agency of Bank of Canada. Interest is payable at any branch in Canada or about April 3, 1967, (without payment of accrued interest) and thereafter in two forms: bearer form with coupons attached and fully registered form with interest payable by cheque. Bonds of both forms will be in the same denominations and fully interchangeable as to denomination and/or form without charge (subject to Government transfer requirements where applicable).

The new Bonds are authorized pursuant to an Act of the Parliament of Canada and both principal and interest are a charge on the Consolidated Revenue Fund of Canada.

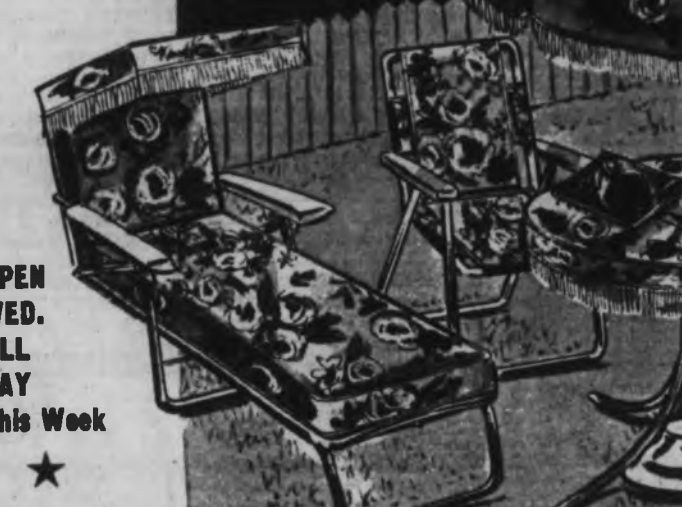

Subscriptions, subject to allotment, may be made to Bank of Canada, Ottawa, through any investment dealer eligible to act as a primary distributor or through any bank in Canada.

Puzzling Variance

LAST YEAR TRAFFIC accidents on streets and highways claimed the lives of 5,258 Canadians. This year it is estimated by statistical experts that this figure will be greatly exceeded.

Commenting on this in an editorial in the Winnipeg Free Press says that if more than 5,000 Canadians were to die in a single year of the same disease, it would be considered an epidemic and a hue and cry would be raised about it and drastic action taken.

"The fact that the automobile has replaced the old diseases as the great killer of our time is something that apparently has not registered with either our lawmakers or the general public," the paper observes.

It is, it says, a situation that cries for action on all levels of government and suggests that one way to get such action is through an aroused public opinion.

"If over 3,000 deaths in a single year are not enough to arouse this opinion, the Canadian people have become strangely insensitive to the sanctity and value of human life."

Though this editorial was written in Winnipeg its message is particularly applicable to Greater Victoria in the light of the peculiar variance of sentences awarded in our local Magistrates' Courts recently.

In the Victoria court last week a number of fines of $300 or more were imposed for offences involving impaired driving. The offenders' licences were also suspended for periods of four months or more.

In most cases the drivers so sentenced had not been parties to any accidents but had been apprehended by police for erratic driving and given the breathalyzer test. Certainly here there can be no quarrel with either the action of the police or the subsequent fines and suspensions of licences awarded by the magistrate concerned.

Nor can the award made by the Saanich magistrate in a similar case in which the offender was fined $350 be criticized.

However, the public might well be puzzled by the fact that on the same day the same Saanich magistrate saw fit to fine another traffic offender a total of $200 on two charges—failing to yield the right of way to a pedestrian in a crosswalk and failing to remain at the scene of an accident—failures which tragically resulted in the death of an elderly pedestrian.

The peculiar imbalance of these sentences was even more heavily underlined by the magistrate's recommendation that the accused have his licence suspended for only three months despite the fact that his driving record includes a previous conviction for failing to yield to a pedestrian in a crosswalk and a failing-to-stop conviction.

What logic can be employed to argue that one man may be fined $350 for erratic driving while another whose misdemeanor results in the death of a human being is fined only $200?

It is to be hoped that the public prosecutor's office or the attorney-general's department will appeal against this finding, for if it is allowed to stand by our lawmakers and lawgivers it will make considerably more real the fear expressed by the Free Press that we have indeed become insensitive to the sanctity and value of human life.

Though the onus rests upon every driver to observe the traffic laws and upon the police to enforce them the onus to administer the law in a fair, reasonable and equitable fashion must rest upon our magistrates and judges. Otherwise the law becomes an ass.

Feat of Endurance

THE INTREPID Sir Francis Chichester, alone in his 53-foot ketch Gipsy Moth IV, has rounded Cape Horn and, chased by fierce winds, is headed for home and England.

He is still in the same waters where a countryman of his, another Sir Francis, plain Francis Drake in those days, is reputed to have been the first man to sight Cape Horn in 1578. He was on a voyage which made him the first Englishman to circumnavigate the globe.

Drake, of course, was strictly on business. Those more than three years of voyaging, raiding and fighting established his personal fortune—something like £500,000—and brought him a knighthood from his queen. The adventure involved was no more than a secondary aspect.

For Sir Francis in Gipsy Moth, the chief incentive for his globe-circling undertaking is simply the challenge: one man, and 65 years of age at that, against the elements.

The fact that through the centuries since Drake other fine seamen have charted the seas about the Horn—Cape Stiff as the clipper ship crews named it in awe—and that Gipsy Moth's master has all manner of aids to his navigation, to say nothing of a Royal Navy frigate, appropriately named Protector, keeping station not far astern, does not detract from his achievement in endurance.

Already he has accomplished the lonely 13,070-mile voyage to Australia from England, and now he is half-way home on the second, 15,000-mile leg of what must certainly be an epic journey.

Victorians may feel particular interest in this voyage, for it is reminiscent of another notable adventure involving an early resident here. On May 21, 1901, John Claus Voss sailed out of the port in the big dugout canoe, Tilikum. Three years later he reached England, having logged an estimated 40,000 miles—which is something like 10,000 miles more than Sir Francis will have covered by the time he reaches his destination. Voss was not alone, of course, but his seamanship and daring must rank him with the most illustrious.

... For the Gander

PREMIER BENNETT has given an explanation of sorts for his remark of three weeks ago that so incensed many of the province's municipal leaders, namely that some municipalities misuse their funds and have been caught in their own glue.

Tardily the premier has told the legislature that "no municipalities have criminally misused their funds." They know, he says, that the province's population-based grant replaced a share of motor vehicle licence fees and was to be used for road programs.

The implication is that to spend less than the grant on roads is misuse, no matter the municipalities' other needs.

How strange that the same reasoning does not apply—in Mr. Bennett's view—to the two-fifths of the sales tax that was intended to be devoted to hospitals.

Mao Restrains His Supporters

By GUY SEARLS from Hoag Kong

THE key theme in the new phase of China's Cultural Revolution is "rectification." Falling victim to this policy are the free-wheeling wall posters that have furnished the world with much of the news about China's upheavals — often inaccurately.

Japanese correspondents, who have taken the lead in reporting wall poster information from Peking, say that censorship in releasing policy information in wall posters was announced on March 10 — ironically through wall posters. "Rectification" campaigns are an integral feature of Chairman Mao Tse-tung's techniques. Whenever the party's policy or organization starts to break up, Mao calls for a rectification. Major rectification campaigns were carried out in 1942 and 1957, and a number of small rectifications have been carried out from time to time. The idea is to rectify deviation and get all party members back on the track of official policy. Independent action or interpretation of policy is not allowed.

In the Maoist way of doing things, a rectification campaign could be considered a natural development of the chaos of the Cultural Revolution. But whether Mao was forced into the current campaign or made the decision himself is open to speculation.

The fighting of Peking is hidden from the world's view and in 1929 — with the loss of one man starting a bitter legal battle, Canada asserted the sinking was an act of piracy since the schooner was on the high seas, while the Americans claimed "hot pursuit" from territorial waters. Judges from U.S. and Canadian courts ignored the case in 1935, awarding $25,000 damages to the ship's company and an official apology to the Canadian government.

The most startling development in China now is Mao's apparent retreat from his program of establishing urban communes, after the pattern of the Paris Commune of 1871. But it is interesting to note, in the light of belated information coming out of China, that it is less certain that Mao has put himself into reverse than that he has stopped his followers from moving too quickly.

In January, Mao was definitely putting out the commune idea to the masses, goal of the Cultural Revolution. The call was for the masses to seize power from below. Shanghai, the first city to experience a seizure of power, was held up as a national example. However, the Shanghai Commune proved to be less than efficient and the city was racked by a struggle between the many independent groups which had taken part in the seizure of power.

Nevertheless, Chang Chun-chia, Mao's Number One man in Shanghai and deputy head of the Central Cultural Revolution group for all of China, announced with great pomp on Feb. 5 that the Shanghai Commune had been established. Now it is known that less than three weeks later, Chang was telling the masses of Shanghai that Mao had ordered him not to establish a commune.

Likewise, in Peking, the security minister, Hsieh Fu-chih was named in wall posters as the chief of the new Peking Commune early in February, but a few weeks later was saying that Mao had told him there was to be no commune for Peking.

Significantly, these communes and a few others were announced only through wall posters or local radio stations and newspapers. They were never acknowledged by the official Hsinhua News Agency, indicating that they may not have had the full sanction of Mao in the first place. The only Hsinhua mention of an urban commune was of plans for one in the city of Taiyuan, and that was to be in the future.

Chang Chun-chia is one of the new Mao elite, and like others of the group, he is known more as an implementer of Mao policy than as an initiator. The unanswered question is whether Chang exceeded his authority when he set up the Shanghai Commune or was made the victim of a Mao about-face. Early in the Cultural Revolution, Mao spoke of Peking's one day becoming a commune. Has he now changed his mind or is he merely calling for a pause?

For all of the confusion, Mao has not pulled back from his call for the masses to seize power. And this is the fast step towards establishing a commune. But the stress now is on seizing power efficiently and without going to excess. The policy now is for all of the revolutionary groups to form one unit and join in a "triple alliance" with the army and established loyal cadres of the party.

The mess in Shanghai has apparently been cleaned up and the city is again being cited as an example for the rest of the nation. So are the cities of Tsingtao and Taiyuan and the provinces of Shantung and Shanxi. And a cotton mill in Kweiyang is being held up as an example for seizing power in the industrial establishment. But none of the other areas and enterprises where power had been seized earlier are being mentioned. Many of these coups were never acknowledged by Peking anyway.

The terminology of the Cultural Revolution is also being changed. The pro-Mao groups formerly were called "revolutionary rebels." Now they are called merely "revolutionaries." The triple alliances, once power is seized, are called revolutionary committees.

A major press campaign has been launched, as part of the rectification campaign, against "egoism" among the revolutionaries. Personal competition among Mao supporters is being frankly admitted, and condemned. The press is decrying the tendency of some individuals to grab the limelight and try to promote their personal interests and prestige. Also vital to the rectification campaign is the enforcement of the policy, repeatedly stated throughout the Cultural Revolution, that agricultural and industrial production must be maintained. The army has been ordered into the countryside to make sure the peasants get on with their spring plowing.

Although the youth have been ordered back to school, policy statements from Peking say they are not to give up revolution. While studying they are to continue their revolutionary struggles but without the flamboyance and excesses of the earlier Red Guard tactics.

Premier Chou En-lai, who took the lead in disciplining the Red Guards, was apparently acting in full accord with Mao's wishes — according to accounts now available. At the initial meeting when Chou scolded the Red Guards, he was accompanied by Chen Po-ta, chief of the Cultural Revolution, Kang Sheng, another member of the inner Mao circle, and even Mao's wife, Chiang Ching.

Many of the early victims of the Cultural Revolution excesses are now being rehabilitated and to Chou En-lai has fallen the unhappy task of patching up a badly damaged administration. Mao supporters, with some justice, can claim that their "Great Helmsman" had never sanctioned the abuses that took place. But it was Mao who instigated the nation to thinking as a mob, and the order to halt was long in coming.

There are still unresolved power struggles at the top and many enemies have been needlessly created. If Mao is not yet laying the price for having let things go far, there is time for that may still come.

Canada asserted the sinking was an act of piracy since the schooner was on the high seas, while the Americans claimed "hot pursuit" from territorial waters. Judges from U.S. and Canadian courts ignored the case in 1935, awarding $25,000 damages to the ship's company and an official apology to the Canadian government.

First World War: Fifty years ago today — in 1917 — the United States recognized the Russian provisional government of Prince Lvov; French troops crossed the Crozat Canal and the Ailette River in France.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today — in 1942 — Gen. Wainwright, U.S. commander in the Philippines, signed a second Japanese demand to surrender. Allied aircraft destroyed 21 Japanese aircraft on New Guinea and 10 at Minsladon, Burma.

Washington Calling

On a Collision Course

By MARQUIS CHILDS

THE cloud over the capital can brew up one of those storms that now and then shake the system of divided powers to its roots. The Supreme Court and the House of Representatives are on a collision course promising a violent smash in the coming months.

The reason is Adam Clayton Powell, who, whether on Bimini or in Harlem, is loving it all in the Supreme Court that is his trademark. He can count on a sequence of events putting him in the history books with Dred Scott, Dreyfus and the other symbols of political passion and prejudice. The sequence, as it looks now, is as follows:

Powell will be overwhelmingly re-elected by his Harlem constituents, probably without contest, in the special election to fill the vacancy on April 11.

With his new credentials he will come back to the bar of the House that refused by a vote of 307 to 116 to unseat him. If Rep. Emanuel Celler, who headed the committee that inquired into Powell's right to take his place, reads the temper of the House correctly the man from Harlem will again be denied his seat. The fierce feeling that resulted in the lopsided vote to keep Powell out is still running strongly, according to Celler. And the man from Bimini has done nothing to assuage this passion by his carefree television appearances, breathing defiance between rounds of scotch and milk.

Then the Supreme Court will be called on to determine whether the House violated the rudimentary requirements set forth in the Constitution on eligibility. With House members angrily telling the court to keep out of their business the two independent branches of government will hit head-on to the damage of all concerned.

There are, of course, exits. One would be if the House should decide to set up a standard of ethics by which committee chairmen and all House members would be judged. Powell could be asked pending a finding on how he measured up to the standard. It would be applied at the same time to other chairmen who have grossly abused their powers. This would defuse the hottest issue of all, which is the charge of discrimination because Powell is a Negro.

The court also has a way out if it cares to take it. This is by following the doctrine of political questions — finding the Powell case to be one of those often sidestepped in the past because the matter up for decision was political rather than legal. This concept can be traced back to many landmark decisions, beginning with Marbury vs. Madison. In 1892 in a Michigan case the court ruled it had no jurisdiction over how the state should choose its presidential electors.

But a landmark out of the recent past stands in the way of evasive action by the court. This is the historic decision re-appportioning the state legislatures on a one-man, one-vote formula. The late Justice Felix Frankfurter in his strong dissent said the court in that case was deciding a political rather than a legal question. Powell's lawyers will cite the precedent of Julian Bond. Refused a seat by the Georgia legislature after his election because of his strong anti-segregation stand, the Supreme Court held that Bond, a Negro, had a right to his seat. In that case the court could rely on the guarantee in the Constitution of the right of free speech. In another time of grave stress and strain just after the Civil War the judiciary and the Congress had a confrontation like that threatening today. A bill was passed taking away the jurisdiction of the court in the disputed case. The damage this sort of clash does to the independence of the separate branches of government is obvious. The frustrations that build up shake confidence in the workability of the system of independent tripartite powers.

Those who contemplate with something like dread a collision between the court and the House of Representatives are looking beyond the Powell dispute and perhaps more ominous threat. This is the pledge of an increasing number of governors of states to call a constitutional convention unless Congress adopts this year some federal revenue-sharing plan.

Although empowered by the Constitution to call a convention to put forward amendments, the states have never done this. With opinion inflamed particularly in the South such a convention today could rush off in all directions to crack down on the federal government. But a special target would be the Supreme Court, with its long record of integrationist decisions.

U.S. Capital

The Last Colony

By ANTHONY HOWARD from WASHINGTON

THE last colony on the American continent, this city is sometimes bitterly called—and certainly the 800,000 people who live here enjoy a singular distinction. Alone of America's 190 million citizens they have no representation in Congress and, even more remarkably, no say in their own city's government.

For almost a century the capital of the United States has, in fact, been a feudal fief—run at the will and for the convenience of the U.S. Congress.

Successive presidents have tried to remedy the situation, sending up bills to Capitol Hill designed to liberate Washington's inhabitants from their subject people's status. But apart only from a grant of the vote in presidential elections finally won only three years ago every effort at liberation has failed: "Home rule" for Washington is just about as unpopular in the U.S. Congress as home rule for Ireland was in the British Parliament a hundred years ago.

Those who resist any change talk eloquently about the "unique status," "the special position," even "the historic heritage" of the nation's capital. But beneath the bombast no one is deceived.

Washington is the only American city with a majority (63 per cent) Negro population and even in 1967 there are enough "Congressmen" still left on Capitol Hill to block any proposal that could result in the capital of the nation having a Negro city government.

Now, however, for the first time the Southern districts in both the House and the Senate look like being outflanked. Having tried two unsuccessful frontal assaults on congressional prejudice, President Johnson has resorted to stealth.

In a message sent to Congress recently he served notice that under the powers given him by the Reorganization Act he proposed to make Washington's "present unwieldy structure into an efficient and effective municipal government." Congress has just 60 days to veto his proposal; otherwise it will go through automatically.

What the president is recommending is superficially modest enough. He proposes to abolish the present three-man Board of City Commissioners (including by tradition an officer from the Corps of Engineers) and replace them by what he openly calls "a mayor and council arrangement."

Cynically it is already being said that all he is suggesting is the replacement of three powerless and undemocratic figures by 10 equally powerless and similarly unrepresentative ones. But to say that is to neglect entirely the hidden purpose that lurks behind the president's initiative.

Naturally under the law is changed—which only Congress can do—those who administer the city cannot be democratically elected. But under the new dispensation they can, and in all probability will, be chosen by the White House exactly as if they were elected. An explosive factor behind the president's proposal is the hope for some and the fear for others that at long last Washington's government is to be handed over to those who have the right to control it.

There could hardly be a more revolutionary change. For years this city has been run almost as if its Negro majority hardly existed. It is a capital indeed with two faces: a public one of a gracious, imposing centre of government, and the private one of the bleak and hopeless squalor of the urban Negro ghetto. Only the school system, in which the proportion of Negro children now runs at over 90 per cent, bears witness to which is the real Washington.

Getting the real Washington to accept this fact and to face its consequences may not appear a tremendously significant issue in terms of everything else that goes on here. But, given the present background of mutual suspicion to the whole civil rights struggle, it is hard to imagine a bolder or more welcome initiative.

If LBJ succeeds in bringing it off, it could well rank as one of the more solid achievements of his presidency.

Communist Satellites

Independent Ways

WHILE Russia and China battle toe to toe for leadership in the Communist world, Soviet satellites are struggling to find their own independent ways in a manner they wouldn't have dreamed of a decade ago.

What really interests the East European countries just now is not ideology, but the centuries-old search for national prosperity and national security. It means going all out to remove the barriers clamped on them by the Russians to prevent them from trading as freely in Western as in Eastern Europe.

The Romanians are continuing their bold process of detachment from the Kremlin's leading strings. They first showed open defiance by refusing to co-operate in the Council for Mutual Economic Aid (COMECON), which was to have been the Communist master plan for economic integration of the Soviet bloc.

Declaring they would look after their own economy and not be exploited by others, they proceeded to seek their own markets around the world. Other satellites looked on enviously, then struck out for their trade deals with Western countries.

Having sabotaged economic integration within the Communist bloc, Romania set out to break Moscow's monopoly of authority within the Warsaw Pact—the Red version of the West's North Atlantic Treaty Organization. They have dared to question the need for Soviet military bases in Eastern Europe; have demanded an arrangement whereby Russian missiles in Eastern Europe could not be fired without the approval of the host country, and have proposed that command of the Warsaw Pact forces be rotated instead of being always exercised by a Soviet general.

Four times in the last 18 months, Romania has failed to follow the Communist line in the United Nations.

In February they delivered a snub to their East German "comrades" by establishing full diplomatic relations with West Germany, the aim being to expand trade.

Now East Germany fears other European satellite nations will follow suit, and thus set the communist regime of Walter Ulbricht in isolation as the only one unwilling to normalize relations with West Germany.

Hungary shows signs of doing so, and Bulgaria has indicated it may follow suit.

These last two countries, together with East Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia, formerly were regarded as the least rebellious of the Soviet satellite countries. Poland's traditional fear of German militarism keeps her looking to Russia for continued protection. Czechoslovakia is playing her cards cautiously, in the hope of extracting concessions from the Germans.

Poland has defied Moscow in certain respects, particularly with regard to managing her own economy. Tension is mounting there between forces pressing for greater national self-assertion and the hard-core Communists who still cling to government. One sides point to Romania's "wiser" leadership and the greater freedom that country is enjoying as a result.

At the other extreme is a pro-Chinese Polish underground party said to be run from headquarters in Albania.

Albania, which broke with the Soviet Union over Russian "revisionism" in 1961, became increasingly isolated from the other European Communist countries, as well as from Moscow.

Her alliance with Peking in the Sino-Soviet ideological struggle is not much help to the country these days.

China in its present turmoil can hardly be called a stable ally. Neither can Albania, smallest and poorest of the Communist countries, presently look to strife-torn China for any economic aid.

Yet, far from trying to restore relations with Moscow, the Albanians go on vilifying the Russian "revisionists." In the eyes of the Albanian Communists, the Soviet leaders can do nothing right. They have even charged that Soviet offers of aid to Vietnam are pure camouflage because the real aim is "to turn Vietnam and Indochina into a base for plots and threats against (China), the socialist-democratic countries of Asia and Africa, and the existing stable Marxist-Leninist parties."

Pursuing her own course of independence from both Soviet and Chinese influence is Yugoslavia, with her own peculiar brand of "neutral" communism. Yugoslavia was the first to show resistance to Moscow. She rebelled against Stalinist communism in 1948, demanding that the working man (the "direct producer") be allowed to determine his own fate.

Collectivization was dropped, some private enterprise brought back and a measure of free debate allowed.

Economic reform in Yugoslavia allows decisions over output expansion and industrial investment and development to be made by private undertakings instead of by a central planning authority, which is the usual Communist method. There is also talk of formulating legislation to permit private foreign investment.

Leading Yugoslav Communists admit that there is no unity today in the executive or central committees of the League of Communists.

A growing liberal wing opposes the old dogmatic centralists, and it is only President Josip Broz Tito who holds the fabric together, it is said.

Sham Election Compounds Problems

Somaliland Dilemma Remains

By STANLEY MEISLER
From Djibouti

It is easy to blame the French for bloodshed in Djibouti but harder to figure out a way to avoid it.

French pride and heavy-handedness played a big role in the events that led to Monday's rioting and shooting. The day ended with French troops killing at least 11 Africans — some reports put the death toll at 17 — in tiny French Somaliland, the last French colony in Africa.

But even without French pride and heavy-handedness, there might have been killing — if not in Djibouti, then elsewhere in this eastern tip of Africa. There is little room to manoeuvre among the fierce currents of tribalism and nationalism here.

The French set up a sham election for independence and then put down the protests with brute force. There were three main reasons for this.

The first was the mystique of French prestige. President de Gaulle was insulted last August when demonstrators rioted for independence during his visit to Djibouti. The French wanted to restore lost prestige by showing that French Somaliland preferred colonialism to independence.

The second reason was traditional colonial favoritism. Colonial administrators have always preferred quiet rural tribesmen to the aggressive, urban, more modern tribes. Since the quiet, rural tribes are less trouble, colonials feel paternal about them.

In French Somaliland, the French have favored the minority Danakilla (also known as the Afars) tribe in the hinterland to the loud individualistic Somali tribesmen in Djibouti. The French were determined to prevent the Somalis from dominating the Danakilla.

The final reason was the self-appointed responsibility of a great power to keep peace within its historical area of influence. French withdrawal from the colony might have provoked war between Ethiopia and Somalia, two neighboring countries that claim French Somaliland.

France dealt with this difficult situation by staging a referendum for independence and weighing the electoral polls toward the Danakilla. The Danakilla, fearing domination by the majority Somali tribe, voted against independence Sunday, overpowering the Somali vote in favor.

But by doing this, the French excited Somali hope for independence and then frustrated their excitement. The pointless killing Monday further embittered the Somalis. French military force now rules a colony in which most of the people, despite what the election returns say, really oppose France.

But could the French have run a fair election? This would have meant independence under Somali rule. There is no doubt that Somalis would have then asked for annexation by Somalia.

The Danakilla would fare poorly in Somalia, a hopeless minority overwhelmed and oppressed by an extremely nationalistic people. There might be communal fighting.

More important, Ethiopia, which depends heavily on the port of Djibouti, would never tolerate it in Somali hands. There would be war.

The French might have salvaged the situation by forgetting the referendum. De Gaulle's pride would have been hurt and his prestige tarnished, but no campaign would have excited tribal passions.

But the status quo only postpones the inevitable in Africa. The forces of anti-colonialism and Somali nationalism were too strong for the French to ignore for long. They had to do something — although they could have acted more subtly and with less pressure on their triggers.

The French seem determined now to hold on to French Somaliland by ruthless force and by expelling enough Somalis from Djibouti to

Marxist Dogma Defied

Yugoslavia Encourages Capitalist Investment

By LOUIS R. FLEMING
From United Nations

New moves in Yugoslavia to attract private capital from the West have inspired speculation among experts here that other Communist states will follow suit.

A government commission in Yugoslavia is preparing a report on ways to attract money from private enterprises without jeopardizing the unique form of Marxism practiced there.

In the meantime, a tentative arrangement has been made between Inter Export, the state foreign trade corporation, and the Volkswagen Corporation of West Germany for construction of a new auto assembly plant. Final arrangements are now being negotiated — apparently while waiting for the outcome of the private investment study.

It is understood that the Volkswagen deal will go beyond the arrangements already in effect between Yugoslavia and French and Italian automobile manufacturers, under which Yugoslav plants are licensed to assemble cars.

Volkswagen is understood to be prepared to pay the entire cost of the new assembly plant, with the understanding that it will retain 49 per cent of the ownership, while Inter Export will have a 51 per cent controlling interest through repayment of that portion of the original investment on a commercial loan basis.

The new Volkswagen plant would be built within 18 months. It would have a capacity of 100 vehicles a day, about half that of the existing Fiat plant in Yugoslavia. Three-fourths of the output would be passenger cars, one-fourth commercial. The bulk would be for export.

In addition to the German parts that would be imported for assembly, Yugoslav factories would also supply parts.

The singular difference between this proposal and other East-West contracts, such as the recent deal between the Soviet Union and Fiat for an 800,000,000 auto plant in Russia, is that Volkswagen will retain a sizeable share of the ownership.

Such an arrangement is easier for Yugoslavia than the other Communist states because it, alone among all the Communist states, belongs to the International Monetary Fund.

Nevertheless, the implications of the step for all the Marxist states are extraordinary for the butt of Marxist hostility has been the capitalist system and the alleged exploitation of the masses by western capitalists.

In this case, the Yugoslavs are arguing that they can maintain what they refer to as worker ownership of the means of production within the socialist framework, and still accept private capital.

Some experts report preliminary hints that the more orthodox Communist states of eastern Europe and the Soviet Union may be considering similar moves because of their shortages of capital.

The shortage of convertible currency and the urgent need for the more sophisticated machinery of Western Europe and the United States are expected to force some surprising innovations on the Marxists.

Already, ideology has virtually disappeared from technical contacts between East and West.

Of course, there is a great distance to travel between East-West trade and the acceptance of private western investment. But on other economic reforms, it has been Yugoslavia's example that has spread sooner or later to virtually every other socialist state and there is no reason to think, experts say, that this will be an exception.

'A Marriage Can Survive After Adultery'

From The London Sunday Times

A single act of adultery should not be legal grounds for divorce. This opinion is expressed by the writer of one of the articles in the new edition of Getting Married, just published by the British Medical Association.

The writer, Dr. Robert Hansen, divisional health officer at Stroud, England, says that infidelity was one of the "lesser" crimes which took people to the divorce courts and he thought that even if infidelity had been going on for several months, a couple willing to understand each other could still build a worthwhile marriage.

Hansen, dismissed "the seven-year itch," saying it is only after the first seven years of married life that a partner realizes he was not going to change the other and then finds that "they are really quite bearable as they are."

Real depth of understanding in marriage could take years to develop and it was, therefore, a shame that marriages were terminated after two or three years, whatever the reason.

In another article, Dr. Kenneth G. Hultchin, of Hatfield, England, says that a wife should not expect her husband constantly to tell her that he loves her. "Saying it is not all that important."

A man can show his wife he loves her in a thousand different ways without saying it — ways which "about the words 'I love you' more clearly than he can say it."

Advocating that "love" was the most misused word in the English language, Dr. Eustace Chessier, a London doctor, states that "love at first sight" was completely impossible in any deep sense. "You've got to know a person before you can love him," he says.

Dr. Richard Mayon-White, an Ipswich pediatrician, says in an article that 18 is not too young for a couple to marry without parental consent.

Also published this week was the revised and enlarged edition of the paperback The New Morality, first published in 1964. The writers, Sir Arnold Lunn, Roman Catholic, and Dr. Garth Lenn, an Anglican, say they are less worried by the increase of sexual immorality among the young than the increase of intellectual immorality among the middle aged.

Tote That Coal, Mop That Floor

Nursing—In The Good Old Days

It was only 80 years ago that nurses were required to haul coal, mop floors, whittle their own pen nibs and, in addition, care for the sick.

A most intriguing flashback on the medical practice of 1887 has been provided by Royal Jubilee Hospital, which has unearthed a job description of a bedside nurse in an American hospital of that time.

In 1887, they were told: "In addition to caring for your 50 patients, each bedside nurse will follow these regulations:

- Daily sweep and mop the floors of your ward, dust the patient's furniture and window sills.
- To maintain an even temperature in your ward by bringing in a scuttle of coal for the day's business.

- Light is important to observe the patient's condition. Therefore, each day fill the kerosene lamps, clean the chimneys and trim the wicks. Wash the windows once a week.
- The nurse's notes are important in aiding the physician's work. Make your pens carefully. You may whittle the nibs to your individual taste.

- Each nurse on day duty will report each day at 7 a.m. and leave at 8 p.m., except on the Sabbath in which day you will be off from 12 noon to 2 p.m.

- Graduate nurses in good standing with the director of nurses will be given an evening off each week for courting purposes, or two evenings a week if you go regularly to church.

- Each nurse should lay aside from each payday a goodly sum of her earnings for her benefits during her declining years, so that she will not become a burden. For example, if you earn $30 a month you should set aside $15.

- Any nurse who smokes, uses liquor in any form, gets her hair done at a beauty shop or frequents dance halls will give the director of nurses good reason to suspect her worth, intentions and integrity.

- The nurse who performs her labors, serves her patients and doctors faithfully and without fault for a period of five years will be given an increase by the hospital, administrator of five cents a day providing there are no hospital debts that are outstanding."

Metaphorically Speaking

"Our domestic political philosophy in this country is still horse and buggy, running way to the rear of technological advance, and our foreign policy is a fence-sitting paradox not far removed from being aimless."

"Our constitutional attitudes and our constitutional responsibilities are in a maze—all in all, it seems we are trying to get a rocket off the ground by burning candle wax, and that won't do."—Garde Gardom, Liberal M.L.A. Vancouver Point Grey.

Harbors Board Bill Step from Law

A bill to establish a B.C. harbors board with borrowing power of $25,000,000 was given third and final reading Tuesday in the B.C. legislature.

The bill will become law with royal assent at the end of the current session, expected late this week.

Attorney-General Bonner said previously the bill would allow development of a "superport" at Roberts Bank, near Tsawwassen.

NDP SUPPORT
NDP members joined Social Credit MLAs in giving clause by clause approval to the bill. The six-man Liberal group in the House opposed it.

Leo Nimick (NDP-Kootenay) asked Mr. Bonner as commercial transport minister, if Crows Nest Industries had agreed to ship Japan-bound coal through such a port.

Mr. Bonner said that negotiations for such a contract are still in progress in Japan "and have not been concluded to my knowledge."

Mr. Nimick asked if the superport plan had any such basis to justify development at this time.

"I have a qualified letter stating the intention of the Great Northern Railway," Mr. Bonner said. The provincial government last week gave approval to construction of a 70-mile spur rail line from Fernie, in eastern B.C., to the GN route in Montana.

"If the railway route is approved, this would be part of the conditions of such a grant," Mr. Bonner said.

Mr. Nimick asked if the superport development and establishment of the harbors board was "a result of negotiations with the CPR breaking down completely?"

Mr. Bonner answered, "Basically, yes."

Jet Trips Listed Not Passengers

Highways Minister Gagliardi reckons his Lear Jet flew 89,000 miles — 19,000 of them outside B.C. — up to the end of 1966.

Among the out-of-province flights made by the jet, leased in 1966 for $5,915.50 a month, have been trips to such places as New Orleans, Seattle, Edmonton, Portland, Wichita, Regina and Calgary.

But there is no record of the passengers it carried.

SOME ANSWERS

The highways minister, who has been criticized by the opposition for his high-flying taste for jets, tabled some answers in the legislature Tuesday to questions asked by the two opposition leaders.

His reply to Opposition Leader Robert Strachan's questions showed that the highways department operates six aircraft, including the Lear Jet, and has seven pilots whose salaries range from $570 to $860 a month.

Details were "not available" about the total maintenance costs for each of these aircraft, and there was no record list of any passengers or destinations.

In reply to questions from Liberal leader Ray Perrault, Mr. Gagliardi advised the House that the lease cost on the jet was $41,408.50 as of Dec. 31, 1966.

Argos Adrift Again As Shaw Quits Post

TORONTO (CP) — Bob Shaw, pleading "intolerable conditions" surrounding his position, Tuesday resigned as manager and coach of Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League.

The former all-star offensive end with the National Football League stunned a news conference called by the club when he said he was stepping out because he felt that the club's refusal to extend his contract was a vote of non-confidence in his rebuilding program.

"I asked for an extension of contract," he said. "They didn't buy it, so I'm assuming they are not buying my program."

Shaw was on the third year of a three-year contract.

Lee Hayman, president of the Argos who was also at the press conference, said:

"The resignation is accepted with regret. But this is a two-edged argument. The coach was given a three-year contract and asked to produce. We fell flat on our face again last season."

Shaw said one of the determining factors in his resignation was the appointment of Nobby Winkowski, former Argos coach, as director of player personnel.

"I have nothing against Nobby, but he was canned two years ago because he couldn't put a football team on the field and now they're asking me to accept his evaluation."

Hayman said he was stunned by Shaw's decision "although we knew the coach was unhappy."

Asked what he planned to do, Shaw said:

"Bud Grant's coaching staff isn't filled at Minnesota; the Detroit Lions staff isn't filled; New Orleans isn't set. . . ."

He said he had no feelings out for a new position and Hayman said the Argonauts, perennial tail-enders in the CFL's Eastern Conference, had not had time to consider a replacement.

Shaw said neither of his assistant coaches — Frank Johnston, hired from British Columbia Lions last year, and Gord Ackerman — knew of the decision before Tuesday.

Shaw said the Argonauts were a "fighting football team" and have never quit while I've been coach."

He said the team would have made the playoffs last season except for injuries.

"What would happen this year if I got knocked down the same way?"

Pro Soccer Loop Faces Roadblock

TORONTO (CP) — Bill Simpson, president of the Canadian Soccer Football Association, says the United Soccer Association may not play in Canada this year.

The new 12-man North American professional body, recognized by the Federation Internationale de Football, has two Canadian entries — Toronto City and Vancouver Royal Canadians.

In an interview Monday night, Simpson said negotiations between the CSFA and the new association have reached a stalemate.

"I don't want to be a spoil-sport, but unless these people meet our terms the league won't play in Canada," he said.

Steve Stavro, owner of Toronto City, said that while disagreement exists "I think it's all pretty small potatoes and I'm sure it will be resolved at the CSFA's annual meeting in Vancouver March 31."

"There are 50 clauses in the contract the Canadian association wanted us to sign," Stavro said.

"We readily agree to 47 of them and the other three are on the bargaining table."

At issue are clauses concerning television rights and rules changes.

Charitable Clay May Carry Folley

NEW YORK (AP) — A cocky but charitable Cassius Clay rules as an overwhelming 5-to-1 choice over 34-year-old Zora Folley in the ninth defence of his heavy-weight boxing championship tonight at Madison Square Garden.

"I may let him go 15 rounds to give the commercials a chance to advertise," said the titleholder, one of the game's all-time showmen.

Folley, a rugged warrior from Chandler, Ariz., who has been knocking at the title door for 10 years without ever getting a shot, appeared guardedly confident.

"I've got experience and a good punch," said the father of eight. "Cassius makes mistakes. I think I can take advantage of them. I think I have a real good chance to win."

Fight time in the historic midtown arena, bracing for its first heavyweight title bout in 16 years, is 10:30 p.m. EST.

An estimated 16,000 are expected to push the live gate to $300,000, a Garden record. The bout will be televised nationally to home TV screens by a special network but blacked out over a 90-mile radius of New York. It also will be seen live in Canada over the CBC-TV network.

The garrulous, 25-year-old Clay, who has treated past opponents with mixed disdain and audacious savagery, has been unusually kind in his pre-fight relations with Folley — like a young man giving due respect to an elder.

"Zora is the best boxer among the contenders and deserves the chance," the champion said. "But I am the greatest."

Clay refused to predict a knockout although his trainer, Angelo Dundee, forecast the referee would be counting the final toll over Folley's prostrate form in the fourth round.

"I'm not a knockout fighter," Cassius said. "I don't have the punch." He winked. He wanted people to know he was kidding.

For a man without a punch, Clay has done a good job of keeping his fights short. He has scored 28 victories, 22 by knockouts. If he stops Folley, it would mark his eighth knockout in the last 10 fights.

The busy titleholder has defended his crown seven times in the last year.

CLAY HEAVIER

He is expected to weigh in at 210, with a 10-pound advantage over his rival. He has a nine-year advantage in age, 2½ inches in height, and three inches in reach 80 to 77.

Folley, who has been fighting since 1953, has a record of 74 victories, seven defeats and four ties. He has 40 knockouts to his credit and himself has been stopped five times.

He is unbeaten in his last 12 fights, covering a 3½-year period.

Canada Gets Untracked All But Buries Germans

VIENNA (CP) — The defending champion Russians and their Canadian and Czech challengers trounced feeble opponents Tuesday to keep up a neck-and-neck race for the world hockey title.

The Russians produced bursts of brilliance to massacre East Germany 12-0 in the first game of the day. Then the Canadians in their most impressive display of the tournament, matched them by hammering West Germany 13-1 in a game that produced 20 minor penalties, 14 of them to Canada.

Czechoslovakia put down the United States 8-3.

In another game in the eight-country, round-robin championship group, Sweden downed Finland 5-1.

The Canadians had emerged from their earlier victories, 6-3 over East Germany and 5-1 over Finland, thinking that they ought to have won by bigger scores. They showed a new spirit against West Germany. Keeping after the puck like tigers, they never let up even when the score mounted to double figures.

It was the most one-sided game of the tournament so far. The Russians had their families.

liar invincible look against East Germany but the East Germans offered only feeble opposition and their defence appeared to have no idea what to do.

The West Germans were obviously trying against Canada, so much so that the game was often on the point of boiling over. The frustrated Germans sometimes kicked back with rough play against the hustling tactics of the Canadians. Three times referees and players had to step between brawling players, but nobody got more than a two-minute penalty.

The Canadians, outshot the West Germans 41 to 8. The margin in the third period was 46 to 3.

Most of the Canadian players got in on the scoring. Fran Huck of Regina scored three goals and added three assists.

Gary Dineen of Montreal, kept off the score sheet in the first two games, and linemates Jean Cusson of Montreal and Billy MacMillan of Charlotte-ton were in high gear.

Dineen had a goal and four assists, Cusson two goals and the Prince Edward Islander a goal and two assists.

Other Canadian goals were scored by Roger Bourbonnais of Edmonton, Ted Hargreaves of Weyburn, Sask., Addy Tambellini of Trail, B.C., defenceman Carl Brewer of Toronto, Marshall Johnston of Birch Hills, Sask., and Morris Mott of Creelman, Sask. Tambellini's goal was his fifth of the tournament.

Outbursts of anger on the part of frustrated West German players and hard-checking Canadians developed into a string of seven penalties in the final eight minutes, six of them to Canada.

McLeod complained afterwards about referee Max Braun of Switzerland and Ted Daily of the United States. "We have had these guys before," McLeod said. "They are both incompetent. They called ridiculous penalties and made bad calls throughout the game."

Huck, one of the smallest players on the ice, was involved in two rough incidents. Kurt Schloder hit him in the face with his stick early in the third period but, only 10 seconds after Schloder entered the penalty box for this offence, Huck scored the second of his three goals.

TRADED PUNCHES

Near the end of the game, Huck and Sepp Reif traded punches after Huck had checked the German against the boards. Both were sent off for two minutes.

Victor Polupanov, with four goals and two assists, enjoyed the biggest scoring spree in the Russian assault on East Germany. Anatoly Firsov scored twice and Vladimir Vikulov, Vyacheslav Starshinov, Victor Yakushev, Veniamin Alexandrov, Boris Majorov and Alexander Almetov each scored once.

Sweden, led by Ulf Sterner's two goals, came to life after Finland had gone ahead in the first period on a goal by Pekka Kuusisto. Other Swedish goals were scored by Carl-Göran Öberg, Hans Lindberg and Folke Bengtsson.

There are no games today in the championship group.

Thursday's schedule, times EST:

Czechoslovakia vs. Finland, 4 a.m.

Sweden vs. East Germany, 8 a.m.

Russia vs. West Germany, 11 a.m.

Canada vs. United States, 2:30 p.m.

The U.S. third, Tom Fitzpatrick, 27, made the difference in the game against Canada with his spectacular shot-making.

"We just couldn't get going," said Phillips after the match.

"I gave away five in the first two ends and you just can't do this and win in international competition."

Phillips served notice his rink will be a lot tougher to beat in the playoffs.

Roberts said he feels his rink can play better and rated Canada and Scotland about even in ability. The U.S. defeated Scotland 8-7 in the second round Monday.

Maloney picked up five points in the contest as he set up four goals and scored one late in the second period.

Canadian Rink Upset By Sharp U.S. Squad

PERTH, Scotland (CP) — The United States defeated Canada 12-5 to take over first place as the only undefeated rink after five rounds of the world curling championship Tuesday night.

Skip Alf Phillips Jr. blamed his own bad performance for the Toronto rink's setback at the hands of the U.S. champions skipped by Bruce Roberts, a Pilot Mound, Minn., native now living in Seattle.

The United States took two stones on the opening end and stole three on the second end and Canada never recovered.

The loss left the Canadian rink with John Ross third, Ron Manning second and Keith Reilly lead, tied with Scotland for second place in the eight rink round-robin bonspiel. Both had 4-1 won-lost records.

The four top rinks follow today's sixth and seventh rounds meet in a semi-final and final round Friday.

Canada lost the championship for the only time in its eight-year history in 1965 when David Summerville of the U.S. defeated Terry Braunstein of Winnipeg in the playoffs.

Sweden was in fourth place following the fifth round with a 3-2 won-lost record, while Switzerland, Germany, France and Norway were all at 1-4.

In other fifth-round matches, Sweden defeated West Germany 12-7, and Scotland trounced Switzerland 19-6. Norway defeated France, 13-8.

Sweden meets the U.S. in the sixth round today, while France plays Canada. Scotland takes on Norway and Germany plays Switzerland.

Vikings Knot Up Hockey Playoffs

University of Victoria Vikings bounced Tudor Monarchs, 6-4, Tuesday to square the best-of-five Esquimalt Hockey League finals at one game apiece.

Beaten 5-4 in the opener, Vikings stormed to three goals in just over five minutes of the first period and never looked back.

Bill Rudyk, Glyn Harper and Paul Morrison gave the Vikings the lead and goaltender Ted Hurd took over from there.

Faced with one of the heaviest barrages of pucks this season, Hurd only fanned on four of 44 shots on the net and stopped three clear cut breakaways to prevent Monarchs from making a comeback.

Hurd was particularly brilliant in the second period, stopping 17 shots while allowing only one goal as Vikings took five minor penalties during the frame.

All told Vikings took 10 of the 16 penalties handed out.

Ted Sarkisian, Bill Sloan, with what proved to be the winner, and Terry Foreman scored the other Viking goals while Doug Couch, Jerry Clochetti, Dave Davidson and Dave Stone replied for Monarchs.

Third game in the series is scheduled for Friday at the Sports Centre starting at 8 p.m.

University of Victoria Vikings bounced Tudor Monarchs, 6-4, Tuesday to square the best-of-five Esquimalt Hockey League finals at one game apiece.

Beaten 5-4 in the opener, Vikings stormed to three goals in just over five minutes of the first period and never looked back.

Bill Rudyk, Glyn Harper and Paul Morrison gave the Vikings the lead and goaltender Ted Hurd took over from there.

Faced with one of the heaviest barrages of pucks this season, Hurd only fanned on four of 44 shots on the net and stopped three clear cut breakaways to prevent Monarchs from making a comeback.

Hurd was particularly brilliant in the second period, stopping 17 shots while allowing only one goal as Vikings took five minor penalties during the frame.

All told Vikings took 10 of the 16 penalties handed out.

Ted Sarkisian, Bill Sloan, with what proved to be the winner, and Terry Foreman scored the other Viking goals while Doug Couch, Jerry Clochetti, Dave Davidson and Dave Stone replied for Monarchs.

Canucks Humble Stunned Blades

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Canucks broke a two-game losing streak Tuesday as they humiliated Los Angeles Blades 10-2 in a Western Hockey League game.

The Canucks slammed in three goals in the first period.

Gordy Veprava and Marc Dufour led Canucks with two goals apiece while Wayne Mosdell, Larry Cahan, Brian Hexall, Barry Watson, Phil Maloney and Ray Brunel added singles.

Bill Orban and Andre Debut replied for the Blades, who are fighting for the fourth and final playoff spot with California and Victoria.

Veprava's two goals boosted him into second place in the league's scoring race.

Maloney picked up five points in the contest as he set up four goals and scored one late in the second period.

After Five-Run Homer Spree

Fred Valentine, who drove in five runs with two homers and a pair of singles, scored on Cap Peterson's double in the bottom of the 10th inning Tuesday, giving Washington Senators a 9-8 victory over Atlanta Braves.

Ken Harrelson also homered for Washington and Hank Aaron, Mack Jones and Felipe Alou hit round trippers for the Braves.

Chicago White Sox beat Kansas City Athletics 5-4 in another 10-inning game when Tommie Agee hit a sacrifice fly with the bases loaded. The victory gave White Sox a 9-3 record, best in the Grapefruit League.

Minnesota Twins downed Los Angeles Dodgers 7-4, New York Mets blanked Baltimore Orioles 2-0; New York Yankees nipped Detroit Tigers 5-4; San Francisco Giants overpowered Chicago Cubs 8-4; Pittsburgh Pirates edged St. Louis Cardinals 5-4; Cincinnati Reds slammed Houston Astros 9-4, and Philadelphia Phillies trounced Boston Red Sox 10-5.

Tony Oliva doubled and homered for four runs batted in and Andy Kasco belted a two-run pinch homer in Minnesota's victory. Al Ferrara homered for Los Angeles.

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

Outdoorism on Vancouver Island are preparing to take Western Mines to court if they have to and to finance such action they are starting a Save Butte Lake Fund.

"We will use donated money strictly to fight for Butte Lake," Bob Pedersen of Nanaimo, a director of the B.C. Wildlife Federation, told an angry standing-room-only meeting at Victoria Fish and Game Club's Goldstream clubhouse Monday.

"It is going to cost recreationalists a lot of money if we have to take Western Mines to court," he said.

Details of the fund have not yet been completed, but Pedersen said donations would be collected through local fish and game clubs.

Those who jammed into the clubhouse Monday became angrier and angrier when they saw slides presented by the club's pollution committee chairman Bob Kennedy which showed filthy sludge running from the Western Mines tailing pond into Myra Creek and on to Butte Lake, which is now discolored for four miles up the lake towards the Campbell River water system.

The pictures left no doubt that the Western Mines operation is already polluting Butte Lake and that it is continuing to operate against a court order forbidding it to carry on with the pollution of the lake.

The arguments are that the mine is using a temporary tailings settling pond and that the trouble is seepage from that bulldozed gravel and boulder pond, which was never designed to be used for a prolonged period.

It had been planned to pipe the tailings into a deep part of the lake under a plan approved by the pollution control board. But Campbell River Water District protested that no public hearing was held. The pollution board had not listened to the other side of the story. A court order backed the Campbell River group and the mine was ordered to desist until a public hearing was held.

Work on the pipeline stopped, but the mine has kept working and the tailing pond waste is flowing freely into Myra Creek, which the pictures show is already a filthy mess, and into Butte Lake, where cloudy water is creeping further and further towards the Campbell River system.

There is already pollution in Butte Lake. There is no doubt of that. Whether it can ever, even now, be cleaned up, even if it is stopped now, is a matter of conjecture.

Meanwhile Western Mines callously continues to operate and add to the pollution, and the provincial government has made no apparent move to stop it.

In fact when Campbell River district protesters marched on the legislature Monday government cabinet ministers and Premier Bennett refused to listen to them. Municipal Affairs minister Don Campbell met the delegation on the legislative buildings steps, but refused them to present a brief and petition.

Now they can see the pollution people are getting angry. Spokesmen at the meeting after seeing the slides of pollution already in Myra Creek and Butte Lake were not too optimistic about a system of dumping tailings into the lake which provincial wildlife biologist Ira Withler said biologists favored as the least harmful means of disposing of the tailings.

Under questioning Withler agreed that the system of dumping the tailings into Benson Lake in northern Vancouver Island had not proven entirely satisfactory.

"Benson Lake is not satisfactory. Mount Washington is not satisfactory. You are not getting a very good average," said fish and game past president Tom Zaccarelli. "It seems too much of a gamble to take that chance."

"We as citizens are having to prove it is going to pollute the lake. Why not make them (the government and Western Mines) prove it won't pollute the lake?" asked Pedersen.

Angus McGregor charged "they are just experimenting with Butte Lake."

"If they make a mistake, what then?" asked Kennedy. "I don't think they have a right to take a chance."

He thought a system of concrete impoundment ponds should be considered and if heavy rains were a problem these could be roofed.

"At Cold River they are spending 3 1/2 million dollars to control pollution. How many millions is Western Mines spending?" asked Howard English.

"Maybe tailing ponds should be constructed of concrete. This is the price they must pay to operate within park boundaries," he said.

One person suggested a human chain across the Western Mines road to force a stop to mining activity.

"If we are going to treat Butte Lake as we are treating it, this will be the last generation that will enjoy it. We don't have that right," said city sanitary inspector Lloyd Smith.

Busiest place in town this weekend is likely to be Mayfair Lanes, where 512 bowlers will create what will amount to an around-the-clock rumble as they strike for the $2,160 in cash prizes offered in The Daily Colonist's fourth annual Vancouver Island Tenpin Bonselpiel.

It starts with 15 three-game matches tomorrow night and by the time the winners in the three events have been declared next Monday, more than 100,000 balls will have been heaved down the 28 lanes.

That's something like 6,000 tons of synthetics that will be moved, and the effort expended would have mowed a lot of lawns and up-rooted a lot of weeds.

Stamina, Luck Needed

To get the record entry of 128 teams through the three events in one weekend is no mean task and stamina as well as bonselpiel luck will play a large part in deciding the winner.

In a draw new to the tenpin bonselpiel but used with considerable success for the past two years in the Vancouver Island Fivepin Bonselpiel, all teams will get two chances at the larger prizes.

All teams will start play in the Colonist Event and then drop into the Mayfair Event as soon as they lose for the first time right up until the Colonist semi-finals have been declared.

Teams losing their first two games will play in Gar's Trophies Event.

Action Concentrated

With losers from the Colonist Event dropping back one or two places, this concentrates the heaviest action in the Mayfair Event with just time enough to get the finalists declared for Monday night's winnow.

However, it will be short and sweet for some of the losers. The first teams will be eliminated during Saturday's 11:30 a.m. draw and each game in the Mayfair and Gar's Trophies Events after that will sideline another foursome.

The starting field will be cut almost in two by Saturday's midday draw.

Six three-game matches will be played at 7 tomorrow night and another nine at 9:30.

Grind Begins Friday

The real grind begins at 9 Friday morning with draws at 9 and 11:30 a.m. and 2, 4:30, 7, 9:30 and 11:59 each day until the six finalists have been declared for the Monday finale.

Handicaps will also play a large part in the results. Teams are given a handicap of 80 per cent of the difference between the combined team average and a team scratch of 800 pins to act as an equalizer.

Team handicaps range from the 182 for Trophy Shop, bonselpiel champions in 1964 and 1965, to 789.

Two other teams have handicaps of more than 700 and 18 have more than 600 pins.

Individual Averages

Individual averages range from the 189 sported by Keith Snelling down to 104 with 65 bowlers in at 170 or better, 89 between 125 and 140 and another 44 averaging less than 125.

Seventy-nine of the teams have at least one female kegger for a distaff total of 157 bowlers. And almost one-fifth of the 512 bowlers are on the 22 out-of-town teams, which are three from the Mainland and 20 from Up-Island centres.

ODD FOUR (481): Jim Glem 132, Frank Hamilton 131, Frank Hamilton 130, Frank Hamilton 129.

Where can you get more nourishment for the money?

Sixteen vegetables in a real beefy broth made from real soup bones:

Campbell's incomparable Vegetable Soup. Along with a peanut butter sandwich, a glass of milk and an apple, it makes about as nourishing a lunch as any mother could ask for.

Campbell's Vegetable Soup costs less than 6¢ a bowl, based on 3 servings from the regular size.

Gordon the Winner

Mr. Klein was unavailable Tuesday night to explain why he had intervened in the battle.

It was a mysterious final act in the battle between Finance Minister Sharp and predecessor Gordon, now minister without portfolio.

Three weeks ago, the two men fought it out at a cabinet meeting and Mr. Gordon threatened to resign.

In the air of crisis at that time, Prime Minister Pearson postponed his Caribbean vacation and Mr. Gordon ended his vacation to come home and work out a second, difficult deal.

Reports leaked out that Mr. Sharp had won, and the government planned to make no changes in the legislation to accommodate Mr. Gordon. But now Mr. Gordon emerges as the true victor.

Besides the club that can fall on Mercantile at any time, at the whim of the cabinet, there is speculation here that Citibank will be forced to cut its ownership in Mercantile to 10 per cent instead of 25 per cent.

Mr. Gordon said he would not talk about the amendment. Asked if he had any role in preparing it, he replied: "I have no comment whatever."

Mr. Sharp was more communicative, in praise of the amendment.

"It's fine," he said. "When it was before the committee, I almost moved it myself. Smoothing over the bitter events of the past few weeks, he added: "On the whole, it is better this way."

Mercantile, he said, had asked for time to get itself in a position to sell shares to Canadians.

"I don't think they intend to do anything but that," he said. "But after 1972, under the original section, there would have been an awkward situation if Mercantile had not carried out its intentions."

Mr. Sharp said he had been reluctant to suggest the amendment in the finance committee because, he thought, the committee might not have wanted to give the government this power of supervision.

"This, he said, "is a sort of tossup between the two positions." Mr. Lambert called it a "breach of faith with the committee."

The Klein amendment was carried by 50 votes to 16.

It was supported by all the Liberals present, excluding Mr. Mackenzie, the New Democrats and the Tories, except Howard Johnston.

The Tories and the Credit-Listes voted against it.

The amendment, Mr. Mackenzie said, in effect says that "we are giving them five years (to Canadianize), but next month we will hold a cabinet meeting and say it is not in the best interests of this country that the law become applicable in 1972."

Mr. Mackenzie, who may have buried his hopes of a cabinet post in opposing the government on the amendment, said he was angry over Mr. Klein's action.

"If we say to the Americans we are going to give them five years and then do not, we are being anti-American."

Conservative finance critic Walter Monette said Mr. Klein's amendment left it to the cabinet to decide the date on which a bank should divest itself of assets.

This date, he said, should be spelled out in the regulations. It should not be left to the cabinet.

"We would not even know which minister would initiate the final decision," Mr. Monette said.

"All this amendment is supposed to do is fill the gap that exists between the opinions of the minister of finance and the former minister of finance."

Mr. Klein, moving his amendment, said there was concern about whether the five-year period was equitable.

"We ought to avoid a situation, on Dec. 31, 1972, that might be similar to the situation at the outset."

The right of the Mercantile Bank to do business and to improve its position during the five years should be respected.

"It may be that at the end of the five years the shares may be worth a great deal of money. If, suddenly, the bank were obliged to comply with the law, the shares would be worth considerably less or the bank would not be in a position to find buyers."

"I believe there should be a period for consultation between Mercantile and the superintendent of banks. This consultation should be periodic and carried out in good faith."

The board would also initiate and supervise traffic safety research, possibly through the national research council.

The committee recognized the danger of government intervention into the industry. It recommended broad membership to "minimize" the "danger of bureaucratic control of vital industry."

province or from the U.S. to Canada.

In essence, the committee recommended the government jump into the car industry with both feet, even to the point of having spot checks in factories.

The suggestion prompted immediate and harsh comment from car companies.

The committee recommended the public board include all levels of government, the various regions in Canada and representatives of business and industry.

The board would spell out general performance specifications for cars and it would be left to the companies to meet them according to their own designs.

In other words it would spell out what such items as doorlocks, brakes and steering wheels are supposed to do. But it would not state specifically what type should be used.

In addition the board would set appropriate standards of inspection and quality control and see they are observed by car producer and parts manufacturers.

Drug Hit in Two Bills

LSD Informing Compulsory

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

Not only possession of LSD but failure to report its presence would make British Columbians liable to fines following amendment of the Health Act Tuesday.

And to make doubly sure the hallucinogenic drug is outlawed completely in the province, the government is processing two bills on the same subject.

A Health Act amendment establishing maximum penalties of a $2,000 fine and six months in jail for possession of LSD without a provincial health approval passed the committee stage but was not given final reading.

It duplicated a new Proscribed Substances Act — introduced earlier — which provided the same penalties for possession of either LSD or marijuana.

without a provincial health permit. This bill has already been given second reading by the House.

The amended Health Act will read "for the protection of the public health within the province any person knowing of the presence of lysergic acid diethylamide, commonly known as LSD, in any premises or in the possession of any person shall report the matter at once to a medical health officer or a police officer."

Failure to do so could bring a fine of up to $500 under the B.C. Summary Convictions Act.

The opposition claimed the fluke of dual legislation came about after it pointed out on the floor of the House that the ruling rightfully belonged under the Health Act, where it stood a better chance of being enforced.

Health Minister Wesley Black couldn't understand what the opposition was complaining about. "As a layman I can't honestly see what harm it would cause to have the two statutes."

Gordon Dowding (NDP, Burnaby-Edmonds) urged the government to scrap the Proscribed Substances Act. "For heaven's sake legislate where you're safe but don't go into an area which is the jurisdiction of Parliament," he said.

Allan Williams (L, Vancouver-Howe Sound) said, "Our aim is to stamp out the use of this drug LSD in the province and if we have to have 10 statutes, let's have them."

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said the federal government is preparing legislation which will outlaw LSD and that B.C. "can leave these statutes on the book until the next session. If the federal government has acted satisfactorily by them, we can withdraw them."

HAVE YOU WRITTEN A BOOK?

A publisher's representative will be in Victoria in May. He will be interviewing local authors in a quest for finished manuscripts suitable for book publication by Carlton Press, Inc., well-known New York publishing firm. All subjects will be considered including fiction and non-fiction, poetry, drama, religion, philosophy, etc.

If you have completed a book-length manuscript (or nearly so) on any subject, and would like a professional appraisal (without cost or obligation), please write immediately describing your work and stating what part of the day (a.m. or p.m.) you would prefer for an appointment. You will promptly receive a confirmation for a definite time and place.

Authors with completed manuscripts suitable to appear may send them directly to the representative (address below) for a free reading and evaluation. He will also be glad to hear from those whose literary works are still in progress. Please address:

A great day to discover how little long distance costs

On this special day the voices of loved ones, perhaps from hundreds of miles away, have a special place in our hearts. Memories are sharpened, experiences recaptured. It is a day when togetherness means so much and—as always with B.C. TEL—costs so little.

Now a student son or daughter away at college can afford a long distance call home (especially if they call "collect"). Long distance rates are among the very few items of personal expenditures which, over the years, have lagged far behind the general rise in other living costs. In fact, many long distance calls actually cost less in dollars and cents today than 10 years ago. Moreover, after 6 pm and all day Sunday they are cheaper by about one-fifth.

Check the rates yourself in your telephone book or dial "O" and ask the operator. You'll be surprised how little it costs to enjoy "the next best thing to be there." Here, for example, are a few current charges:

VANCOUVER—PRINCE GEORGE..... $1.35
NEW WESTMINSTER—CALGARY..... $1.50
VICTORIA—TORONTO..... $1.95

(Evening, station-to-station calls, first 3 minutes)

On this important day of the year there's more reason than ever to use
Long Distance for all it's worth!

Licence Refused Bugging Figure

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver private detective Angus Macdonald has been turned down on his application for renewal of his business licence. RCMP in Victoria confirmed Tuesday they had rejected Mr. Macdonald's licence application. They refused to give a reason but said they were acting on behalf of the attorney-general's department.

Under the Private Detective Licensing Act, the acting commissioner of the RCMP in British Columbia is responsible for screening applicants and issuing licences.

Mr. Macdonald, a former Vancouver police drug squad officer, gave evidence at the royal commission on invasion of privacy in December about the type of electronic eavesdropping devices used in detective work. The commission was prompted by discovery of bugging devices at a union convention last November in a hotel in Vancouver.

Career Diplomat Ottawa Choice

OTTAWA (CP) — Career diplomat Charles Ritchie will replace Lionel Chevrier as Canadian high commissioner to Britain, External Affairs Minister Martin announced Tuesday.

Mr. Ritchie, 60-year-old Halifax native, now is ambassador to the NATO council in Paris and a former envoy to the U.S. and UN.

He will be replaced by Ross Campbell, 49, now ambassador to Yugoslavia.

Mr. Ritchie's appointment to the prestigious London post had been forecast since last November, when the government announced Mr. Chevrier will act as commissioner-general for state visits during centennial and Expo celebrations.

King Fisherman to Chile

Big Winner Heading South

King Fisherman Contest Chile trip winner Jack Fry will step aboard a Canadian Pacific Airlines jet airliner in Vancouver Friday to start his holiday of a lifetime.

With Mr. Fry, 1983 Lodge, will be his fishing partner, Roy Wilhelmsen, 1699A Earle Street, who persuaded him to go fishing on the day he caught the 211 brown trout from the Cowichan River ... the fish which was drawn from 21,456 entries to win the Canadian Pacific Airlines trip.

Mr. Fry's wife, Jean, who had planned to go with him to Chile, had to give up the trip because of a baby son which arrived to the Frys March 5. It had been expected to arrive in late January or early February, they have a six-year-old son, John Allan.

"Little James Glen is too small to leave with someone else just yet. I wouldn't be happy if I left him," says Mrs. Fry.

"Maybe Jack will win next year's trip (which will be to Mexico in the Canadian Centennial Edition of the King Fisherman Contest which starts April 29) and I can go to Mexico," she laughed. As sort of a consolation Mr.

Fry has bought her a new electric dryer to handle the increased wash from the new baby.

"I am very pleased with that. This trip (to Chile) won't cost Jack very much, so we will be able to have a little holiday later," she said. The Chile trip King Fisherman prize is an all-expenses-paid trip for two.

Mr. Fry and partner Wilhelmsen will arrive in Santiago, Chile, at 11:30 a.m. Saturday where they will be met by a Canadian Pacific Airlines representative and officials of the Chilean National Tourism Bureau which will be their host for their week's stay in Chile.

Saturday afternoon they will be guests on the train for a 400-mile trip to Villarica. There they will be guests at the Antumalal Hotel by the side of Villarica Lake and will drift the rivers for some of the famous Chile rainbow trout fishing.

This week Mr. Fry and Mr. Wilhelmsen have been hardly able to contain their excitement as they collected their fishing tackle. Mr. Fry plans to take a number of the special brass spoons he has invented, the same kind that caught his winning fish.

"I have been lucky ever since I won this trip. I seem to win in everything I enter now," he says. This week he even started on a better job with the Greater Victoria school board.

Prizes for Everyone

Mrs. Jean Fry will have to forego Chile trip, but she is happy with healthy baby born March 5 and new dryer as consolation gift. Jack Fry, left, and fishing partner Roy Wilhelmsen start big holiday trip Friday.—(Bud Kinsman)

Names in the News

Trujillo-Killing Survivor Shot

SANTO DOMINGO — A former Dominican Republic boss, one of the two survivors among the 11 assassins of dictator Rafael Trujillo in 1961, was shot and apparently wounded while riding in a car on a suburban street.

Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera's car had 23 bullet holes in it but his condition in hospital was not reported. He headed a short-lived junta after a 1965 rebellion that failed.

BIRMINGHAM — The Birmingham Repertory Theatre dropped its plan for the first topless Shakespearean heroine when the gauze holding the two pasties of Charlotte Howard (37-24-38) gave way in rehearsal. She'll wear a blouse for her role as Rosalind in As You Like It.

VASTERAS, Sweden — Quintuplets were born to Mrs. Fredrik Jansson, 28, who had been treated with a fertility drug, but three died. The only boy and one girl remain alive.

RIO DE JANEIRO — The Brazilian foreign ministry said West Germany has requested the extradition of Nazi death camp commander Franz Stangl, recently caught in Sao Paulo.

NAIROBI, Kenya — Henry Poolman, one of East Africa's best-known white hunters, was shot and killed accidentally by a gun bearer when what appeared to be a dead lion suddenly charged. U.S. big game hunter Julian Barrett was severely mauled.

MONTREAL — Jamaican Prime Minister Donald Sangster, 56, was reported seriously ill after an emergency flight here for neurological treatment.

RED DEER — Former Sacred leader Robert Thompson said he won't join the Liberals or Conservatives and added he will only join another party if it's possible for any other party to achieve the objectives held by Social Credit.

VANCOUVER — A thief stole from a bus depot bench Rev. Kurt Mittelstaedt's briefcase, containing a Bible and some sermons.

NORTHWOOD, England — Lt. Gen. Sir Frederic Morgan, the burly Briton who masterminded the D-day invasion of Normandy, died at 73.

WASHINGTON — The Teamster union magazine printed a message from jailed president James Hoffa saying, "I'll be back. God willing, cabinet chase May 3 for presidential elections. The ruling Democratic Republican party's President Chung Hwe Park and the opposition New Democrat's Yun Po-Sun, a former president, will vie for a four-year term."

SPRINGVILLE, Mo. — Former jazz trumpeter Randy Brooks, 49, died in an apartment house fire.

LONDON — British dealer Charles Trayley paid £2,600 at an auction for naval log books recording the 1912 discovery of the bodies of Antarctic explorer Robert F. Scott and his companions. The books were offered by Thomas Williamson, son of a naval officer in the discovery party.

VATICAN CITY — Sources said Pope Paul will call a long-awaited consistory in September to name new cardinals. Deaths have reduced the college of cardinals to 93 from its February 1965 high of 103.

SEOUL — The South Korean cabinet chose May 3 for presidential elections. The ruling Democratic Republican party's President Chung Hwe Park and the opposition New Democrat's Yun Po-Sun, a former president, will vie for a four-year term.

'Thaw' Brings Action

The Greater Victoria School Board moved swiftly Tuesday to take advantage of the end of the ban on construction of school gymnasiums and activity rooms.

Board chairman Peter Bunn said arrangements are being made to add an activity room on Newton elementary school, and a gym at Christie Point elementary-junior secondary. Both schools will be started this spring.

Premier Bennett announced in the legislature Tuesday the six-month freeze on construction of school auditoriums and gymnasiums has been lifted.

FAVORABLE RATE

"Today we were able to raise $23,000,000 at favorable rates on the New York market and I am happy to announce that the freeze is completely off," he said.

He also said, in reply to a request from Herb Capozzi (S.C. Vancouver Centre), that the government is willing to share one-third of the remaining $425,000 yet to be raised in order to build an all-weather outdoor sports stadium in New Westminster.

Mr. Capozzi said a committee had already raised $75,000 which would be needed to build a "junior stadium" for high schools in Greater Vancouver and would be willing to raise two-thirds of the remainder if the provincial government would put up the rest.

AMAZEMENT

Liberal leader Ray Perrault rose to comment, with some amazement. "It's almost as if we are living in a never-never land. We're told through the whole session there was no freeze at all, and now it seems there was no freeze until the thaw set in."

Alex Macdonald (N.D.P. Vancouver East) welcomed the lifting of the freeze and said it showed the opposition had been so forceful that some of its ideas were "seeping in" on government action.

But Premier Bennett replied the NDP had been doing such a good job as opposition that the "people are going to see you remain in opposition for a long time."

Education Minister Peterson said the Liberal leader was "confused" about the freeze. The total ban on gymnasium and auditorium construction had been in effect since last October, while a priority system was being used on classroom construction which had no freeze, he said.

Central Saanich, which depends on septic tanks for sanitation, is asking the B.C. pollution control board for permission to dump treated sewage effluent in Brentwood Bay.

Board action is needed before a $450,000 bylaw can be placed before ratepayers. A similar bid to the board was killed in 1963 by strong opposition from residents.

Cantelon and Cadillac

Old Car's Restoration Labor of Love, Time

By BOB PETHICK

When insurance salesman Bill Cantelon saw the 1907 Cadillac three years ago, it was a far cry from the gleaming model he rides in now—but it was still love at first sight.

"It has always been one of my ambitions to restore an old car, but I was never in one place long enough to get started, at least not until I got to Victoria," said Mr. Cantelon.

It wasn't going to be any short job, and Mr. Cantelon knew it wouldn't be easy.

"When I got the car it hadn't seen the light of day for 20 years. It wasn't in very good shape. You name a car trouble—it had it," he said.

"It had to be stripped down to the frame. As I removed each piece I would make a mental note of how it went back together," he said.

First step on the road back for the elegant vintage car was having the frame sand-blasted by a local tombstone factory, followed by several coats of anti-rust paint.

"If you don't count the man-hours spent so far, the job has come to between $2,000 and $2,500."

As to the number of hours spent on the project in the last few years, "I wouldn't hazard a guess," he said.

Because of the top and speed of 17 miles an hour, Mr. Cantelon rarely used main roads on his drives.

"Of course it can travel 30 miles an hour, but that would only shake it to pieces," he said.

He had high praise for other Victorians interested in restoring vintage cars, and their willingness to give a hand and advice when needed. He particularly praised garage man Phil Foster.

"There's nothing I would rather do than go on the Vintage Car Club run to Kamloops," said Mr. Cantelon. "But I'd have to haul the Cadillac on a flat trailer and just drive it through the town."

How does his wife feel about him giving up all this time?

"She doesn't mind. In fact, she's quite happy. Now she can get all dressed up in a costume of the period of the car when we go for a drive," he said.

Suspect Faces Committal

Action is underway to commit to a mental institution a 46-year-old man suspected of deliberately starting last Saturday's fire at the Colonial Inn on Government Street.

The committal proceedings on the man, described by police as a prime suspect in the hotel blaze, follows investigation into the fire's cause by city detectives and fire marshal investigators.

The fire was spotted, before it spread upwards into the main part of the hotel, by two city policemen who were on routine patrol in the area.

The fire was confined to a storage room at the rear of the hotel by firemen who were called about 5 a.m.

Tarlton Moving, Letters Circulate

Boycott of UVic Next Week Could Follow Rally Today

By BILL STAVDAL

The University of Victoria's simmering faculty dispute rose toward a boil Tuesday.

● Dr. Charles Tarlton, a central figure in the issue, announced he will take a better-paying post as a professor of political science with the University of California.

● Students will hold a rally today which could culminate in a boycott of the university next week.

● Two open letters of scathing criticism of the administration were circulated among the faculty by instructors resigning in protest over three dismissals.

Centre of the issue is the university's decision not to renew the contracts of Dr. Tarlton, an assistant professor in the political science department; Joseph Schwartz, a lecturer in English, and Alan Mackenzie, an English instructor now on paid leave of absence studying in Scotland.

Resignations in protest have been turned in by English instructors Richard Gravel and Tony Steele and philosophy instructor Jack Bush.

The university has given no reasons for the dismissals of Tarlton, Schwartz and Mackenzie. Critics of the administration universally believe it was because they criticized administrative procedures and the power structure of the university.

Free Debate 'Hurt'

For the first time publicly, Dr. Tarlton said Tuesday the administration has created an atmosphere hostile to free debate within the faculty.

His views were backed in open letters written by Mr. Bush and Mr. Gravel.

Students and the faculty members involved have kept fairly quiet about the issue in recent weeks because the cases of Dr. Tarlton and Mr. Schwartz were under review by special committees. The administration has avoided comment on the same grounds.

Student council president David McLean said Tuesday many students now suspect the administration has been stalling until exam time arrived to keep the students busy.

A speakers'—student rally—will be held at the Student Union Building at noon Thursday, said Mr. McLean. It will be addressed by Dr. Tarlton and possibly Mr. Schwartz.

Mr. McLean said he believes two teaching assistants fired and reinstated at Simon Fraser University in the past week will also attend and may speak. The report could not be confirmed.

The teaching assistants were involved in a demonstration last week at Templeton high school in Vancouver, caused by the expulsion of a high school student for criticism of a teacher.

Purpose of the speakers, Mr. McLean said, will be to air the issue and affirm a tentative decision to hold a mass meeting in the university gym next Tuesday.

The gym has already been rented.

Boycott Vote Likely

The mass meeting would vote on whether to boycott classes in support of the fired and resigning faculty, said Mr. McLean.

Dr. Tarlton said he will accept a post at "a southern campus" of the University of California. Besides regular lecturing he will initiate an experimental course of political science for freshmen, he said.

Dr. Tarlton said he has still not been given any reasons for his non-renewal.

He said the committee headed by Dean Alex Wood which decided not to renew him did not consider his record in scholarship.

"I wasn't even spoken to," he said.

"The thing I'm incensed about is the refusal to give reasons. It's not on academic grounds; it can't be," he said. "I can only surmise the reasons."

He criticized the unwillingness of the administration to allow "a tough kind of academic freedom" within the faculty.

A charge of violation of academic freedom by Dr. Tarlton has been investigated by the Canadian Association of University Teachers. It has not yet issued its report.

Dr. Tarlton said that, if the administration does not clear the air, it will result in long-term harm to the campus.

"Few good young academics will want to come to a place where this sort of thing is going on," he said.

Richard Gravel said in his open letter:

"I should like to believe that the present crisis is the result of a series of random instances of poor judgment."

Concern Displayed

"I do not believe that it is, in fact, accidental that these men have been dismissed at the same time, but even if I could believe that we are confronted with a mistake, I would still have to regard it as a mistake of such magnitude as to call into serious doubt the judgment of those responsible."

Mr. Gravel said the three being let go "displayed real concern for four others who were being forced out" in 1966.

"It is not hard to recognize that these men are being dismissed for political reasons, nor is it hard to recognize that this prevalent political motivation has expressed itself in dubious use of the administrative machinery," said Mr. Gravel.

In a separate statement he declared: "Any analogy (of the university) with businesses and boards of directors is fatuous."

"Any self-respecting teacher must be affronted at the idea that his job is to sell pre-packaged quarts of knowledge homogenized by the administration."

A day earlier philosophy instructor Jack Bush circulated his open letter, which said in part:

"In getting rid of Dr. Tarlton the university has done much more than eliminate a single troublemaker. It has committed an act that is bound to be interpreted for a long time as notice that fundamental criticism is not tolerated at the University of Victoria."

He said the university has "fatally compromised the abstract ideal of tolerance and freedom supposedly so central to the nature of a university."

Fee Unchanged

Saanich finance committee recommended Tuesday that the experts who studied municipal recreation needs should be paid what they sought at first.

B. Sanderson Co., a firm of consultants, asked $3,490 originally and increased that to $5,044 later. The firm will also get $300 for having 50 copies of the report printed.

The cost of beauty comes high, and aldermen were told it would cost around $250,000 to maintain Beacon Hill Park at its usual high standard in 1967.

Biggest item is wages, which cost $87,055 in 1966 and will hit the taxpayer for about $91,400 this year.

New Trees on Yates Mutilated

Vandals mutilated seven young trees on Yates Street overnight Monday by snapping their tops off.

The trees, on the north side of the 800 block, were planted only two weeks ago, said Alan Smith, parks department foreman.

They were "maliciously" broken off, he added.

The foreman said the trees were removed by parks workers Tuesday and returned to the

Snow Cash Slashed

Aldermen Gamble On Weather

By A. H. MURPHY
City Hall Reporter

City aldermen took a calculated risk Tuesday. In the hope that there will be no snow next November and December they slashed $10,000 out of public works spending estimates for 1967.

"After all, we managed to get by January, February and part of March without snow and it has always been about a five to one chance that we get no snow in the last two months of the year. I think we can afford to take a chance," said City Manager Dennis Young.

The amount of $13,000 was allocated for snow removal in 1966 and $6,218 was actually spent.

Treasurer James Bramley is usually the principal opponent of cutting snow removal costs too sharply in annual budgets.

REMOVAL COSTS
He fears a big snowfall, with removal costs at about $2,000 a day, could put the city in the red and deplete its contingency fund which is called upon many times during the fiscal year for emergency funds.

"Snow, in fact," said Mayor

Stephen, "is Mr. Bramley's white nightmare."

Aldermen spent Tuesday cutting some thousands of dollars out of the massive spending estimates of public works and parks departments.

MORE TODAY

The budget-paring sessions continue today.

With costs up about $1,330,000 this year, aldermen have a long way to go before they can bring estimates down to the point where they approach those of last year.

It is impossible to estimate just how much has been cut from the 1967 spending estimates of more than $15,000,000 because many items of expenditure have been held in abeyance until further information can be obtained.

City, Police Tackle Park Harassment

Measures to step up the policing of Beacon Hill Park and stop youths from molesting old people were considered by aldermen Tuesday—the second consecutive day of paring spending estimates.

Mayor Stephen said there had been a complaint that an elderly woman was surrounded and harassed by a group of young people recently.

WITHIN RESOURCES
He discussed the matter with the chief of police, who said he was prepared to put on more automotive park patrols within the resources of his department.

What was needed, in the opinion of parks administrator Herbert Warren, was more men patrolling on foot. Commissioners had been tried and they did not work out—they were too old in most instances.

TALK MATTER OVER
It was agreed a combination of more automotive patrols along with a couple of men patrolling on foot might do the job and the city manager will talk the matter over with the chief of police.

The cost of beauty comes high, and aldermen were told it would cost around $250,000 to maintain Beacon Hill Park at its usual high standard in 1967.

Biggest item is wages, which cost $87,055 in 1966 and will hit the taxpayer for about $91,400 this year.

"It's a big operation, all right," said Mr. Warren, "but it is up to city council to decide if we can afford to maintain the high standard set over the years."

Another expensive item, aldermen were told, was Centennial Square and the fountain which forms its hub.

FIGURE GIVEN

Total expenditure on the square for 1967 was estimated at more than $25,000.

Of this amount, about $3,000 will be spent on the fountain. Another $12,000 will go in wages of the men who keep the square clean and tidy and in repair.

"It's incredible the amount of money which can be spent on this square," said Ald. Ian Stewart. "One couldn't operate a private business spending money like this."

SWEEP EVERY DAY

Mr. Warren pointed out the plants in hanging baskets and square flower beds were changed five times a year. The square was swept every day and there were costs for lighting, repairs and many other things.

"The square is expensive, all right," admitted City Manager Dennis Young, "and one reason is the fountain. Fountains are aesthetically pleasing but notoriously costly to operate."

Asked by Ald. Hugh Ramsay if they could be protected in any way, Mr. Warren said he just didn't have any answer.

Greig-Barnes

Newlyweds Go South

Following a honeymoon trip, Rich peacock blue peau de soie gowns, banded at the empire waistlines with pale blue lace, were worn by the bride's attendants. The groom's sister, Miss Sylvia Greig was maid of honor, and the bride's sister, Miss Nancy Barnes was junior bridesmaid. Pale blue flowers formed their headpieces and they carried bouquets of pale blue daisies.

The bride, the former Christine Johanne Barnes, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Barnes, 1150 Monterey Avenue, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Greig of Richmond, B.C.

Chrysanthemums and gladioli in pale yellow and white tones decorated St. Mary's Anglican Church, Oak Bay, for the service, Saturday, in which Canon Hywel Jones officiated. Mr. Barnes gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride's exquisite floor-length gown was fashioned on empire lines. Lace trim enhanced the front panel of the A-line skirt, and the bodice featured a jewel neckline and short sleeves. Her mantilla veil was of delicate Spanish lace and was draped softly to chapel-length. Accessories were white and she carried gardenias and stephanotis in her cascade bouquet.

A small crystal bud vase with red rosebuds topped the three-tier wedding cake which centred the head table at the reception following in the home of the bride's parents. Arrangements of red rosebuds and freesia completed table decorations. Walter White, a family friend, proposed the toast to the bride. The new Mrs. Greig donned a skirt and coat of blue tweed, with accenting shell top of pale blue, for travelling on honeymoon. Her complementing Breton hat was in vibrant fuchsia pink and her accessories were black.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Edmond of 1128 Goldstream were honored on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary Monday evening at a family dinner held at the Scott Street home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Johnston. An "at home" for friends followed the dinner. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Edmond's two other daughters, the Misses Barbara and Mary Edmond, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Bartlett, Mr. and Mrs. B. Strongman and Lieut. James O'Brien.

Surprise Shower

Miss Ruth Luning was guest of honor at a surprise shower given by her future sister-in-law, Mrs. B. D. Greig in her Bay Street home. Cakes were given the bride-elect, her mother, Mrs. A. L. Luning and the groom's mother, Mrs. M. B. James. A red and pink hamper held the gifts. Guests included Mrs. C. Fuller, Mrs. E. Walte, Mrs. H. James and the Misses Donna Cann, Lynn Small, Ann Gelling, Karen Green, Ruth Goldsmith, Mary Taylor, Barbara James and Arlene James.

Forthcoming Marriage

Children Guests At Easter Party

Florence Nightingale Chapter IOOE will hold an Easter party today starting at 1:30 p.m. for the older children at the Retarded Children and Adults Association Centre on Elford Street.

Mrs. G. C. Baker, services at home and abroad secretary, told the members at a recent meeting that the executive will be in charge of entertainment for the afternoon. Special attraction will be local magician, Mr. O. P. Fowler, known as Ah Fu Yu, who will delight the children with his usual tricks of magic.

Mrs. Walter W. Walsh, regent, presided at the regular meeting held at the Tudor Road home of Mrs. T. B. Lumsden. Welcomed as a guest was Mrs. M. McAllister, a former member of the Chapter and now a resident of Nanaimo.

ONTARIO
 Mrs. Lyle Balfour will preside at the monthly meeting of the Ontario Social Group, in the Albert and Charlotte rooms of the Empress Hotel today at 2 p.m. Ten tables of bridge will be in play, with refreshments served at 4 p.m. Open to all from Ontario.

Scandal Still with Us

"The impulse to scandal is still with us today," said Dr. Patricia Koster in discussing scandals of the reign of Queen Anne at the recent meeting of the Women's University Club of Victoria. But it is not, she continued, "artistically expressed." In her talk Dr. Koster, who is a member of the English department at the University, reviewed scandals associated with the Marlboroughs, ancestors of Sir Winston Churchill, and the writings of that political pamphleteer of doubtful reputation, Mrs. Mary Manley. Dr. Koster was introduced by Mrs. H. R. Turner and thanked by Mrs. D. L. South.

At the meeting, which was held in the faculty lounge on the campus, Mrs. R. A. Fraser, president, announced plans for several forthcoming events. These include the annual scholarship tea being held in the lounge of the Student Union Building on April 1, the Fine Arts group coffee party scheduled for April 12 at the home of Mrs. R. M. Adamson, and the annual dinner meeting to take place at the Red Lion Inn on May 17.

Miss M. Rowe reviewed plans for the national triennial conference of the Federation of University Women, being held by hostesses to the delegates for in Vancouver from August 23rd one day following the convention to 26th. The Victoria branch will join.

Legion Auxiliary Marks 20th Year

GANGES, B.C. — A happy atmosphere was found in the Royal Canadian Legion Hall, March 17 when the Ladies Auxiliary of the Royal Canadian Legion (Branch 92) held their 20th anniversary of their charter.

Mrs. M. Deane Freeman, provincial president of the Legion Auxiliaries in 1947 who installed the charter members 20 years ago, was guest of honor. Mrs. Freeman who resides at Bridge River in the Cariboo was accompanied by Mrs. Florence Hodges of Quesnel who travelled 500 miles to be present for the occasion.

Mrs. C. W. Archer, president, welcomed the guests. Mrs. Cecil Springford, first vice-president and Mrs. J. B. Acland, second vice-president, were special guests as well as other past presidents and charter members.

A lovely arrangement of purple-Dutch irises and yellow chrysanthemums in a low green bowl centred the lace covered coffee table flanked by yellow tapers in silver candlesticks. The white and yellow iced anniversary cake was cut by Mrs. Springford.

Eight of the past 12 presidents who were present at the party were Mrs. Springford, Mrs. Acland, Mrs. A. M. Brown, Mrs. W. Wolfe-Miller, Mrs. E. Booth, Mrs. H. Ashby, Mrs. F. W. Kirkham and Mrs. H. Emerald. Other past presidents unable to attend were Mrs. Colin Mount, Mrs. Peter Cartright, Mrs. Audrey Jackson and Mrs. Lacy Campbell.

Charter members present at the party were Mrs. Acland, Mrs. Springford, Mrs. A. Francis, Mrs. W. A. Malley, Mrs. A.

Socreds Hail NDP Split

New Democratic Party ranks split in the legislature Tuesday during debate on an amendment to a proposed mining regulation act.

The debate within the party was greeted by loud desk-thumping from the government side and Premier Bennett said: "I suggest the NDP caucus carry on in some other room."

The amendment, eventually approved, will allow 17-year-olds to work underground in a mine if they are in an approved training program. Leo Nimalick, Dave Stupich, Robert Strachan and William Hartley attacked the use of "children" in mines but Frank Calder and Randolph Harding supported the training idea.

*** Social Credit outspent the NDP by more than 3-1 in the provincial election last Sept. 12, Provincial Secretary Black said.

The Socreds declared election expenses of $47,183, the NDP $125,385, Liberals $45,640 and the Communist party $2,121. Social Credit spent its largest amount in Alberni, where $13,029 helped H. R. McDiarmid unseat NDP veteran John Squire, who spent $2,873. The NDP high was the $3,781 of victorious David Barrett in Coquitlam and the Liberal top was $7,834 for Alan Macfarlane in Oak Bay against $8,500 for Socred Charles Ennals.

Jubilee Asks Final Plans

Royal Jubilee Hospital has asked its architects to prepare the final drawings for a $600,000 nurses' training centre, administrator George Masters said Tuesday.

Construction is expected to start about Oct. 1. The instructional centre will replace classrooms in old huts which have been used by the hospital for 20 years.

Death Ruled Accident

Death came accidentally to Mrs. Amelia Holman as she crossed Vancouver Street on her way home from work (March 11) with her arms full of packages and collided with a car turning left off Fort Street.

A coroner's jury ruled Tuesday she died at 4 a.m. March 12 of brain damage and shock. Death was ruled accidental as the result of her being in collision with a car driven by Harold Armstrong of Vancouver. No blame was attached.

Longest Pony Express Ride Starts at Buildings Today

Sooke Opens School Bids

Sooke school board Tuesday opened tenders for the new two-classroom and activity unit of the Sooke-Saanich re-erected school to be built on the grounds of Langford Elementary School.

Contract was awarded to K. C. Johnson Construction Ltd. of Langford, with a low bid of $38,826.

Highest bid of the six received was for $47,972.

It is hoped to have the school opened in September.

Bombs All Over — No One Hurt

DUGGER, Ind. (UPI) — A freight train smashed into a bomb-laden truck in the heart of this small community Tuesday, scattering explosives over an intersection and against nearby buildings.

None of the 84 bombs on the truck exploded. Nobody was injured. One 500-pound bomb soared 40 feet through the air and smashed into the rear of a barber shop.

The largest and longest pony express ride in history — which will carry a rawhide scroll to Ottawa containing greetings from trail riders of America — leaves the Legislative Buildings at 8:30 a.m. today.

First riders, Heather Rimmer and Floyd Adams, will receive the scroll from Mayor Hugh Stephens and Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood for the first leg of the 3,000-mile Centennial Journey across Canada.

The trip will take about 100 days with riders giving over the scroll to men with fresh mounts every two miles.

Before the colorful ride is completed, 1,000 riders and horses will have taken part.

Graduates Win Research Prizes

Ten students graduating in mathematics and science this year at the University of Victoria have been awarded $2,500 National Research Council bursaries for post-graduate work in universities across Canada.

In addition, ten of last year's winners already doing similar work have been awarded $3,000 each to continue graduate study. The 10 graduates this year followed last year's:

I. J. Christensen, 309 Gorge West, in study mathematics at the University of Toronto; Douglas Proulx of Vancouver, maths at Toronto; Sharon Gidley, 2811 Oak, biology at UBC; Rita Gustin, 2881 Oak, biology at UBC; Philip Lamb, 640 Gordon Road, biology; Robert McInnes, 1228 Leaveness, maths at Toronto; Douglas McMillan, 2811 Oak, physics at UBC; David Shaw-Murphy, 3184 Rutledge, chemistry at Toronto; David Peden, 3375 Oakview, biology at Calgary; Brian Whitlan, 21 Wellington, physics at UBC; Christopher Brown, biology; Sydney Bulman-Fleming, maths; Andrew Chisholm, chemistry; John Davis, biology; Andrew Palk, biology; John McDermott, theoretical physics; Andrew McNeil, physics; Ronald McMillan, maths; Donald Purdie, biology; and Thomas Turner, maths.

Senior Governments Blamed

Yard Job Picture Grim

A Victoria labor official Tuesday castigated the senior governments for a "serious unemployment picture" among the city's shipyard workers.

"We have men — No. 1 tradesmen — on welfare," said boilermakers' Local 181 business agent Neil Hindle.

PROPER TIMING

Mr. Hindle said he felt the provincial government could have released some bids with proper timing to keep the shipyard workers active.

"We have platers, ironmen, welders, drillers, caulkers and helpers unemployed," he said, "a regrettable situation with our favorable weather conditions."

Mr. Hindle said he had written to Premier Bennett and Victoria MLAs asking them to do something about stepping up bids.

REFIT HERE

"I feel the federal government could have released a destroyer for refit here," he said. "Releasing contracts on a bid basis is not good enough for Canada."

Monday Mail Like This

The Victoria post office says normal service is planned Easter Monday for letter carrier and rural mail delivery routes, special delivery, mail receipts and dispatches, and street letter box collections. Wicket, money order and savings bank services will be from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. and the box lobby will be open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

TV TALK

By ROBIN JEFFREY

Britain will get color TV later this year, and the man responsible for its introduction says it will be "the best color TV service in the world."

David Attenborough, the controller of the BBC-2 network goes on, "In many things Britain has paid the penalty of being the pioneer. But not with color TV."

"America did the pioneering, and they now have a system which they would probably change in some ways if they could."

"Our system will be better than anything in the world. We are using the West German PAL system, but we are also incorporating the results of 10-15 years of our own research."

Color television sets in Britain cost about $1,000, and owners of color sets will have to pay an additional $15-a-year licence fee, bringing their total TV licence to $30.

Most viewers, however, will rent their color sets at about $5-a-week.

The BBC-2 chain was constructed for color, and the changeover entails only a flicking of switches.

B.C. Action Urged On Compensation

The B.C. Federation of Labor-unions, which has accused the provincial government of stalling with management in stalling implementation of new Workmen's Compensation legislation.

President F. L. Staley of Victoria issued a statement that declared: "There is only one reason why the government is stalling this legislation: they are allowing time for the employers with their vested interests to use the coming year to lobby and cut the guts out of Justice Tysoe's proposals."

SLIP SERVICE

"We contend that it is clearly evident that the government is prepared only to give meaningless lip service to this most important legislation. The federation feels that the government has had ample time to study the Tysoe report and propose the legislation. To delay this another year is to continue the injustices to workers contained in the present act."

Our federation is prepared to study the new act and to draft any proposals for change over the Easter recess and to meet with any government department studying the legislation.

MAKE MOCKERY

"MLAs are elected and are paid to look after the needs of the people of this province. While we could oppose anything that would deny the MLAs having Easter with their families, there are many disabled workers who are looking to them for human justice.

"We must insist that the House reconvene after Easter to study and pass this vital legislation. To do otherwise is to make a mockery of parliamentary government and will cause many to ask if this government is generally interested in the welfare of the people."

Mr. Staley said Tuesday the Vancouver Island District Council of Carpenters had sent a telegram in similar vein to the premier.

The federation last fall endorsed Mr. Justice Tysoe's report as being "worthy of consideration," although it did not encompass all the changes necessary to make the act favorable to workers.

Civil Service Alliance Bids For Naval Dockyard Staff

Naval dockyard workers on both coasts would best be served by having the 115,000-member Public Service Alliance of Canada as its bargaining agent, alliance vice-president James Wylie of Ottawa has told national defence workers here.

"The alliance's various affiliates have been representing government workers in all fields for 50 years, and offers the largest research department in the trade union movement in Canada," he said.

FEDERAL BILL. Mr. Wylie spoke at a seminar called by the 1,000-member Union of National Defence Employees' Victoria branch to give workers information about the new federal bargaining-rights bill.

He said the alliance proposed to have experts in various segments of civil service on hand when bargaining takes place. Much of the value of the alliance, he said, will come from its members' years of experience in civil service procedures.

SURPRISE VOICED Mr. Wylie said earlier he was surprised to hear a local representative of the metal trades council had described the alliance as "clerical workers, chiefly."

He said weathermen, truck drivers, laborers and others came under the alliance, while tradesmen, chiefly in the ship and the metal trades council repair department of the ship covered a limited number of yard.

Around Town

Cute Little Shelter Leads Sam Astray

When there's spring in the air a young cocker spaniel can be expected to kick up his heels when a member of the daintier sex passes by, even if she is a Sheltie.

That's what happened to Sammy, the black cocker, and he hasn't been seen since, it's a week today since he left, following his light of love, that cute little Sheltie.

His owner, Joan Parby, 3181 Aldridge, is getting worried. The three-year-old cocker was wearing a red collar, his licence and a tag with the name and address of his owner.

The 1968 convention of the Professional Photographers Association of B.C. will be held in Prince George.

The association is currently holding a three-day convention here.

Second vice-president is Hugo Redivo of Penticton. Directors are Jorgen Svendsen and Paul Johnson of Victoria, Don Clowes of New Westminster, Manuel Espinosa, Vancouver; Len Lovick, Nanaimo; Joe Malik, Vancouver; Paul Ponich, Kelowna; Fred Schiffer, Vancouver.

Robin Wood of Victoria last week was re-elected president of the Victoria branch of the B.C. Registered Music Teachers' Association.

Mr. Wood is director of the Victoria School of Music. He and Mrs. Betty Mack will represent the local branch of the music teachers in the provincial association.

Other executive officers named are Mrs. Joan Bullmer, vice-president; Mrs. M. G. Lancaster, recording secretary; Mrs. D. H. Kirkendale, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Sheila York, treasurer.

Executive members are Mary Adamson, Noel Smith, Hans Siegrist and Mrs. J. A. Lavertu.

Mrs. K. C. Gilbart has been elected president of the Victoria M.S. Golden Key, which is the women's auxiliary of Victoria and Vancouver Island Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Hovercraft Editor City Man

A Victoria man has been made editor of a hovercraft magazine published in Calgary. He is Alex Jardine, 3478 Kalsbury Way, who retired as a group captain in 1965 when he was commanding officer of RCAF Station Penhold, Alta.

Mr. Jardine, vice-president of the RCAF Association, will be in charge of Air Cushion Vehicles Review, a monthly supplement to Canadian Wings, the only aviation magazine published in western Canada. His office will be in his home.

Funds for Home Boys' Club Goal

George Gray has been named chairman of the Boys' Club of Victoria capital fund-raising campaign for new club quarters.

The Goodwill Enterprises executive will head the $20,000 drive which began Tuesday at the club's annual meeting in club quarters at 1240 Yates Street.

The new building will be located on city-owned property adjacent to the present club. It is designed to accommodate 1,200 boys and will feature study rooms, a gymnasium, craft areas and an automotive shop.

The new building will be an addition to the old firehall converted for use by the boys six years ago.

The premises have been overcrowded since the club began. More than 300 boys, from eight to 18 years old, make use of the building.

Synchronized Meet

Swimmers Winners

Victoria YM-YWCA Synchronized Swimming Club members brought back six honors from the B.C. championships at Simon Fraser University at the weekend. Mrs. Rita Norbury is their coach.

Winners of first place in the 12-and-under class was the team composed of Sandra Sands, Nancy Cox, Shelley Cranston and Maureen McInnally. The junior team, consisting of Megan Hurn, Sherrilyn Blight, Nadene Zala, Jacquie Norbury, Bonnie Purvis, Da Smith and Maureen Vesey, tied for first place.

Shelly Cranston and Sandra Sands came second in the 12-and-under duet, Megan Hurn won third place in the junior solo and Bonnie Purvis and Jacquie Norbury were third in the junior duet. The club was second in competition for the junior team, consisting of

Or, how to get that real home-cooked flavour your kids will love, without all the fuss and bother of cooking.

Used to be when you wanted real, honest-to-goodness home-cooked flavour in a pudding, that's what you had to do. Cook it.

Because cooking made it better. Cooking made it smoother, creamier. And it brought out all its flavour. The only thing was, cooking was such a lot of bother. You had to get a pot and mix the stuff in and then stir it and stir it and watch it till it boiled. Oops. Careful. And then cool it. And when you were through you had a real cooked pudding alright but more often than not you had a real mess too. Guck.

So what this country needed was a pudding that tasted just like the cooked kind, without the cooking.

Robin Hood cooked one up. The new Robin Hood Parfait Pudding. The Unique One.

With the new Robin Hood Parfait Pudding all you do is add milk, chill, and serve. There's nothing to it. Takes about 15 minutes in all. And it really does taste like the kind you slave over. How do we know? We tried it on the experts. Lots of them. 7, 8 and 9 year olds. The toughest critics we could find. And they agreed. They said it does taste just like the kind their moms cook for them. The kind where they couldn't wait to lick the pot.

The new Robin Hood Parfait (they said) had the same texture too. It was thick and creamy just like cooked. Smooth, with no lumps. Not watery either. Just good wholesome old-fashioned pudding, a new-fashioned way. They loved all its five delicious flavours too. Chocolate, Butterscotch, Vanilla, Lemon, and Coconut Cream.

And that's why Robin Hood Parfait is The Unique One. Because there just aren't any other puddings that can match it for real cooked flavour. And in this day and age of Instant, and artificial flavours and synthetics, that is unique.

What's more, Robin Hood Parfait gives you more for your money. It makes up into six big servings. Not just four like the others. (And that's pretty unique too.)

So why not give new Robin Hood Parfait pudding a try tomorrow. Find out for yourself why we call it The Unique One.

And years from now, when your kids have grown up and gone they'll always remember Robin Hood chill and serve Parfait as the good home-cooked pudding mother used to make. That's a fact.

The Unique One

John D Firm: 'U.S. with Liberals'

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker refused to withdraw a statement in the Commons Tuesday that Walton Butterworth, U.S. ambassador to Canada, was "with the Liberals in '62 or '63".

External Affairs Minister Martin said the statement was a reflection on Mr. Butterworth and a "baseless charge against my party."

Mr. Diefenbaker retorted that Mr. Martin could not divert him with "rabbit tracks." The Liberals had not only accepted but warmly welcomed American manpower and financial assistance to fight the Conservatives in the 1962 and 1963 federal elections, he said.

The Conservative leader spoke during debate on the most controversial of all the 162 clauses in the new Bank Act—a restriction against the U.S.-owned Mercantile Bank of Canada.

The government had swallowed itself and knuckled under to American financiers and the U.S. state department, he said. "Did the American administration decide it was going to determine the course Canada was going to take?"

The clause gives Mercantile's parent, First National City Bank of New York, until Dec. 31, 1972, to sell 75 per cent of its shares in Mercantile to Canadian residents—a change in date from Dec. 31, 1967, as originally proposed by Finance Minister Sharp.

Mr. Diefenbaker said this clause puts a restriction against Mercantile into cold storage for five years.

A further amendment introduced by Milton Klein (L—Montreal Cartier) just before Mr. Diefenbaker spoke would make the deadline indefinite.

This was even worse, Mr. Diefenbaker said.

He could imagine Citibank Chairman James S. Rockefeller laughing to himself and saying: "I came, I saw, we conquered."

Manitoba's Roblin Next in Tory Race?

OTTAWA (Special)—Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin will probably be the next to throw his hat into the ring for Tory national leader, according to party sources here.

His emissaries have been putting out feelers around him.

Ottawa to find out how the party would react to his candidacy.

These sources say he is ready to quit provincial politics, where the tide may have started to turn against putting out feelers around him.

Garden Notes

Sow—Jump Back!

By M. V. CHESNUT

In yesterday's column I told you something about our new free seed offer — seeds of the Early Sensation Cosmos, Canada's centennial flower. This is a tall, graceful plant with finely-cut, ferny foliage and big daisy-like flowers in many different colors. As you may have gathered, I am pretty enthusiastic about these seeds and I am most anxious for all my gardening friends to try them.

How do you get your free seeds? Just drop me a line and ask for them, enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope. I realize, though, that there are many keen gardeners to whom letter-writing is a bore and an effort, and to make it easier for such folks, I have placed a little order coupon at the foot of this column: simply clip it and mail it to me along with your stamped and self-addressed envelope.

As I mentioned yesterday, the Cosmos is an exceptionally easy plant to grow, which is one reason why it was chosen as our Centennial flower. There is no need to mess around with indoor sowing, nor do you need a greenhouse or coldframe; just bung 'em in the ground and jump back fast!

I DO suggest, though, that you start them in a small seed bed in a sunny, sheltered corner of the garden rather than sowing them where they are to bloom. You see, these are fairly big plants, standing three to four feet tall when fully grown, and if you were to sow in situ, you would have to space the seeds out at least 2½ feet apart to give them enough elbow room to develop properly. Tiny seedlings spaced so far apart are liable to get lost in the weeds.

It is better, then, to sow in smaller space where you have some control over the whole planting, later digging up the young plants on the point of your trowel and moving them to their flowering position.

The seeds can go in as soon as the soil loses some of its winter moisture and feels warm to the touch — I would say any time after the end of the month. Make your seed furrows half an inch deep, wet the furrow with a weak fertilizer solution — or use plain water if you don't have any soluble fertilizer handy — then space out your seeds on the wet dirt three inches apart and cover shallowly with fine soil.

The seeds germinate strongly and rapidly and usually show in four or five days, actually more rapidly in cool weather than in warm. About the only hazards to fear are hungry slugs, woodlice, or an extra-heavy downpour of rain which could wash out the seedlings. The baby plants have feathery leaves, quite distinctive and unlikely to be mistaken for weeds.

Lots of sunshine is needed for sturdy development, and ideally a rather sandy soil, not too rich. The transplanting and after-care will be discussed in a future column.

ART BUCHWALD Urges Safety First

Hawks Needed in Space

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Senate is now discussing a treaty on outer space with the Soviet Union which provides that the Moon and other celestial bodies shall be used exclusively for peaceful purposes, and the establishment of military bases is prohibited.

Senator Eugene McCarthy of the senate foreign relations committee thinks we're getting our treaties all mixed up. If we're going to have a war he would much prefer it to take place in outer space, rather than in the populated areas where we seem to fight our battles now.

His suggestion is that we should be working on a treaty that says any future wars must be fought only in outer space, and the place where people live must be used exclusively for peaceful purposes.

There has been so much concentration on the troubles in Vietnam that we haven't been able to devote much thought to outer space.

I personally think it would be a great mistake to use outer space for peaceful purposes. This is not only because of Senator McCarthy's remarks, but because if we go exploring other celestial bodies without a military capability, we're bound to get into a heck of a lot of trouble.

The Moon, as far as anyone can tell, is no problem, but once you start messing around with other planets you're bound to run into hostile situations.

We have to assume there is life in outer space and we also have to assume these beings are not going to be necessarily welcome with open arms. If they're smaller than we are, they will be afraid of us; if they're larger than we are, they'll probably beat us up, just for the fun of it.

At the beginning we might be able to get along with them, but pretty soon as more people arrive from Earth, there's bound to be friction.

It might start over a simple thing like a girl (or whatever they call them in outer space), or it could be caused by our building a liquor store on a planet and not selling the natives any drinks because of their color (we'll have to figure they're going to be green until we hear otherwise).

Or it could begin because we promised to pay them $24 for their planet, and then reneged on it.

In any case the first settlers from Earth will have to have protection from space beings and this would be the job of the U.S. Space Cavalry. They would build forts around our settlements, send out patrols along the Milky Way and move the space beings to special reservations set up for them, presumably on uninhabited planets. If the beings refused to go, the cavalry would have no choice but to attack and destroy them.

Another reason for not signing the treaty is that if we visit other planets, their beings might demand reciprocal rights to visit the Earth, and J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI would be hard pressed to keep tabs on all of them.

There may be doves who say that the military should keep their hands off celestial bodies, but experience tells us that if we show any sign of weakness to other planets, they will interpret it as an indication that we're not willing to fight for what we believe in.

So I say it's a mistake to approve a treaty on outer space if it doesn't provide for adequate defensive measures against green spatial enemies, who would destroy any way of life we might set up there.

The Rocking World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Easy Come, Easy Go

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Andrew Oldham, manager for the Rolling Stones, is a mere 22 years old but he has made a fortune for his boys and for himself. His latest toy is a $48,000 Rolls Royce, complete with bar, TV, and enough recording equipment to outfit a major network. It's a good life, while it lasts.

Funny girl Barbara Streisand is 24 and she says it makes her feel old because she can remember being 19 and that seems a long time ago. She has a handsome husband, a baby and that is young for 24.

Eddie Adams is all for commercials on TV. Edie, whom we will see very soon in The Honey Pot, tells me she is more widely known for her commercials than anything she has done on stage or films. "I used to walk around New York and nothing happened. Now, people recognize me. The commercials have increased my box office value." Also, all that lovely money for praisings a product. It can go as high as $100,000. Next time I see Zsa Zsa I must ask her how much she receives for stating, "Zsa Zsa sent you."

Oscar nominee Annette Bening cut her salary to $350 a week in order to land the picture for which she has been nominated for best actress, A Man and a Woman. With the picture a huge hit, her salary has increased 10-fold to $3,500 a week for her next movie, at Paramount, The Eyes of Mrs. Blossom.

When Mrs. Bob Hope saw herself on Bob's Vietnam show — she accompanied him there, if you remember — she decided she looked too heavy. She promptly lost 15 pounds and just to make the transformation complete, the lady who has been married to Bob for 33 years, dyed her hitherto brunette hair, a bright blonde. I can just see Bob's face when Dolores came home from the beauty parlor! Let me add, he thinks she looks great. Galvanized by her husband's admiration, Mrs. Hope is now on the whole beauty regime—exercise, massage, and long walks.

From now on it will be Frank Sinatra who does the weekend flying. Wife Mia is back in London from their Palm Springs home and she will be busy with her Dandy in Aspic picture with Laurence Harvey. Frankie is due to start Shamus in Miami but it will be easier apparently for him to jet to his young bride for a weekend here and there. Mia's part in the picture is not very big and she expects to be through in a month. Actually, she could have played her husband's leading lady in his picture, but was feared her closest friends might say she couldn't get a film role without him. In any case, Sinatra does not believe in nepotism. When Tommy Sands was married to Nancy Sinatra Junior, he was dying to play the part of Frankie's younger brother in his film version of Come Blow Your Horn. It went to young Tony Bill instead, and why isn't Tony the great star today that I prophesied he would be when I met him five years ago?

Gyl Roland, daughter of the late Constance Bennett and Gilbert Roland, has the most fascinating face to appear in a magazine since I can't remember when. Gyl has her mother's blondness, her face and cute nose, and her father's black-lashed Latin eyes. She appeared on stage with her mother in Hay Fever, and currently runs a restaurant in New York, with her actor-husband while waiting for another stage or film break. All she has to do is act as well as she looks.

Models Asexual

SYDNEY HARRIS

I happened to glance at a magazine lying on my wife's bedside table. It was a foreign fashion magazine called Elegance, and in true husbandly form, I looked for the price on the cover. It was $3.

"That's a whacking big price for a magazine," I remarked. "I suppose so," she said, "but look inside and you'll see why it's worth it."

I shrugged. "What do I know about fashion? One style looks like another to me." She shook her head. "It isn't the fashions — it's the models. Take a look at them."

I took a look at them, and saw immediately what she meant. The models were women. Moreover, they were human women. They looked as if they moved, talked, thought, and felt. They were real.

"Now look at this one," she said, tossing me a chic American fashion magazine. "Can't you tell the difference?"

No question about it. The models in the American magazine were dead. Their eyes were dead. Their mouths were dead. Their bodies were dead. They looked like cloths hanging, all metallic and angular.

And they were profoundly asexual, for all their provocative posturing. Only a necrophile would find them even faintly appealing.

The whole field of fashion in America is dominated by the model who looks like nothing else on land or sea — an eviscerated creature with man as a tuning-fork to a turtle.

The European models in the magazine had vitality. They also looked as though they had husbands, children, lovers, and friends, and were not wholly wrapped in the narcissistic cocoon of fashion. The clothes existed for their sake; they were not there simply for the sake of the clothes.

The word "model," in its earliest definition in the English language, meant "representation in three dimensions." And this is precisely the difference: The American model is two-dimensional, lacking the third dimension of depth and warmth and earthiness that distinguishes a living person from a sketch as shallow as a sheet of paper.

Driving Limited To Work

Magistrate J. A. Byers ruled a 25-year-old truck driver off the road for four months Tuesday except for driving during working hours.

Walter Evanchiew, 4095 Cedar Hill Cross Road, was also fined $350 when he appeared in central court Tuesday after pleading guilty at an earlier hearing in a charge of impaired driving.

Francis E. McMorrin, 535 Sumas, pleaded guilty to impaired driving about 10 p.m. Monday and was fined $300 and the magistrate recommended his driver's licence be suspended for four months.

Court was told the accused was arrested after he was involved in a minor car accident on Manchester near Burnside. He gave a breathalyzer reading of .15 per cent.

Magistrate Byers committed Gordon A. Johnston, 2185 Amity Drive, for trial in a higher court at the conclusion of a preliminary hearing on charges of uttering a forged document and possession of stolen property over $50.

Fined in traffic court for careless driving were: Terrence G. Smith, 320 Niagara, $45; Peter Talava, 111 Medina, $35; Mrs. Edith Greenhill, 1925 Cochrane, $35; Thomas Marsh, 3415 Diana, $40.

Minimum Wage Up for Hotels

A boost in the minimum wage rate for workers in the hotel and catering industry was announced Monday by B.C. Minister of Labor Leslie Peterson.

Mr. Peterson said the wage boost, which affects about 25,000 workers in the province, will mean 10 cents an hour increase effective May 1 and 25 cents effective Nov. 1.

NO PROBATION

Under the old rate, workers received $1 per hour after three months, and a lesser rate for the first three months of employment.

Crew Rescued From Flames

HALIFAX (CP)—The air-sea rescue centre said the crew of the herring seiner Lavallee was rescued when the vessel caught fire about 114 miles west of Burgeo, Newfoundland.

The crew, whose exact number was not known, was taken aboard another seiner, the Western Ranger.

been removed from the new minimum wage order, and the rate will be $1.10 from May 1 and $1.25 after Nov. 1.

The new order specifies a 40-hour week and eight-hour day, with time and one-half in excess of these limits, with some exceptions.

The order also covers other conditions of employment.

Haddock New Head

Businessman J. Courtney Haddock was elected Tuesday as president of Royal Jubilee Hospital board, succeeding A. C. Wurtele.

The elections took place at the first session of the hospital's board held since last week's general membership meeting.

Haddock

The hospital's board of directors has the following members: Mr. Haddock and Ian Horne, who represent the provincial government; Ald. Robert Baird and Mr. Armstrong, representing the city; J. W. Casey, Saanich; Coun. Frances Elford, Oak Bay; Reeve Ray Bryant, Esquimalt; Dr. J. A. Hutchison, chief of medical staff and Dr. A. N. Reid, vice chief of medical staff, and Mr. Wurtele.

Surgical Gloves Major Item

Royal Jubilee Hospital last year spent $10,000 on surgical gloves.

Another $41,973 was spent on sutures, $17,500 on syringes and $1,000 on patient identification bands.

Those are some of the more unusual, "invisible" costs involved in running the hospital, which last year spent $6,295,000 treating the 15,262 adults and children who were admitted.

An indication of the volumes involved came with statistics such as these — the hospital had to buy about 1,000 dozen surgical gloves; 2,658,788 pounds of linen were handled by the laundry at a cost of $260,771.

Other expenditures last year included $29,647 for surgical instruments, $61,209 for dressings, $42,184 for printing and stationery, $21,630 for cleaning supplies, $10,400 for water, $11,887 for electricity and $57,748 for fuel.

The hospital's dietary department took $620,128 and the cost of nursing service was $1,659,660.

Silver Threads Concert Today

The Victoria Silver Threads choir will give a concert for the Sidney Silver Threads service at 2 p.m. today.

Mrs. Dorothy Cuthbert will conduct the choir in the Sidney branch centre at St. Paul's United Church Hall on Malaview Avenue. There are 108 members in the Sidney branch, which opened three months ago.

An average of 26 people a day attends the afternoon sessions each Monday through Friday from 1 to 4 p.m. A session on arts and crafts will end April 27.

On March 29 the monthly dance and sing-along, with Bruce Cartwright's band, will be held.

Why Are They Jumping?

SINGAPORE (Reuters) — Six persons have plunged from high buildings—including two couples with their wrists bound together—in a series of mysterious deaths here in the last 12 days.

Monday night the latest victim, a girl aged about 20, died after falling from a 10-storey apartment house. All six victims were under 25.

Twelve days ago the bodies of a young couple were found at the foot of the multi-storey apartment house, their wrists lashed together. Three days later, the bodies of another couple were found below another house with their wrists tied.

The next day a 21-year-old girl, married only four months, plunged from yet another house. A police spokesman said no special inquiries were being launched—coroners' inquests would investigate each death.

Deadliest Killed

26 Stolen Snakes Found in England

LONDON (UPI) — Twenty-six snakes stolen from Regent's Park Zoo during the weekend were found Tuesday in a cellar in the suburban North London. The most vicious were dead.

Police said the reptiles, including several described as extremely venomous, were found in the community of Stoke Newington.

A 16-year-old boy will appear in court Wednesday in connection with the discovery, a police spokesman said.

The deadliest of the snakes, a Gabon viper and seven puff adders, were dead, the spokesman said.

The snakes disappeared from Regent's Park Zoo early Friday.

Wildlife authorities said at the time the theft must have been an inside job to have been attended of the security guard which keeps 24-hour patrol on the zoo grounds.

Several socks of the kind normally used for transporting reptiles were missing.

Police spread a city-wide dragnet for the snakes. They broadcast warnings not only the danger of snake bite, but the possibility that the reptiles, some of which were obtained at great cost and effort, might die through failure to adjust to the decidedly non-tropical London climate.

Watch West Germans Poland Warns Expo

WARSAW (AP) — Trybuna Ludu, the Polish Communist daily, warns Canadian organizers of Expo 67 to "watch carefully what the West German government will exhibit inside its pavilion."

The newspaper says: "We doubt if the shape of the pavilion representing the contours of Hitler's Reich would be changed. But we should like to warn the fair's hosts as to the pavilion's contents."

"We consign to their special care all maps, diagrams and propaganda publications. It would also be important to see how the Germans will trace the European frontiers in order not to permit them to poison yet another world event with the spirit of revenge and hate."

The current Warsaw tension over frontiers had its beginnings in 1939, when Germany attacked Poland from the west and the Soviet Union moved in from the east. The country was partitioned, with a common German-Soviet frontier running down the middle of what had been Poland before the Second World War began.

ODER-NEISSE — Germany later overran the Soviet portion but at the end of the war, in 1945, the Soviet Union re-annexed it. To compensate the restored nation of Poland, the victorious allies agreed that Poland should be given nearly all German territory east of a line formed by the Oder and Neisse Rivers.

This was done and the Soviet-bloc countries consider the change permanent, while most Western powers claim it is only a provisional frontier until a permanent German peace treaty is signed.

MPs Approve Surprise Five-Year Club

Gordon Wins—Mercantile 'Loses'

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — A five-year club hanging over Mercantile Bank has emerged as the Sharp-Gordon deal to cope with the troublesome U.S.-owned bank, and Walter Gordon has emerged the winner over Mitchell Sharp in their personal fight.

The deal, disclosed and approved in the Commons Tuesday, caused Conservative Marcel Lambert to say: "This is a sentence of death over Mercantile."

Bryce Mackasey, a Liberal MP who went to New York to work out an earlier deal with the Mercantile's owners, First National City Bank, said: "I do not know what effect this might have on me as a politician, but I do not play dirty politics."

Mr. Mackasey voted against his party on the amendment that placed the club over Mercantile.

He did so, he said, because it was "diametrically opposed" to what was accepted unanimously by the finance committee two weeks ago.

The deal is sure to raise a hurricane of protest in Citi-bank's executive suite in New York.

The amendment was moved by Liberal backbencher

Milton Klein of Montreal, who is not a member of the finance committee that labored over the draft bill for months.

The draft bill, as approved by the committee, gave Citi-bank five years, until December of 1972, to unload 75 per cent of the Mercantile shares in Canadians.

The Klein amendment gives the government the power to act any time between now and next December.

City bank could ignore the government's orders only by agreeing to restrict its liabilities to 20 times its assets. And it has already passed that figure.

Secret Peace Effort Disclosed

Johnson and Ho Sour Pen Pals

Ho said no...

to Johnson invitation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson made an unsuccessful personal appeal to Ho Chi Minh last month for direct, unpublicized peace talks between the U.S. and North Vietnam, it was disclosed Tuesday.

Johnson returned from a two-day Vietnam strategy conference on Guam Tuesday night and acknowledged what he called "regrettable rebuffs to a genuine effort to move toward peace" in his exchange with Ho and the North Vietnamese leader's contacts with other world figures.

"Nevertheless, we shall persevere in our efforts to find an honorable peace, until that is achieved, we shall continue to do our duty in Vietnam," he said.

NEVER SUBMIT

In what was believed to have been the first, direct exchange between the two leaders, Johnson told Ho at the start of the lunar New Year bombing pause in Vietnam Feb. 8 that he could not accept Hanoi's demand for an unconditional halt in U.S. air raids.

Ho rejected Johnson's message the day after the air strikes resumed Feb. 13. "Vietnam will never submit to talks under the threat of bombing," he said.

TOKYO (UPI) — North Vietnam, commenting on Ho's rejection of Johnson's offer for direct peace talks, charged Tuesday that the American proposal was evidence of "double-dealing" by the United States.

PERFIDIOUS POLICY
Hanoi charged that "the U.S. imperialists carried out a very cruel and perfidious double-dealing policy while they kept clamoring for peaceful talks and unconditional negotiations."

"This letter sent by U.S. President Johnson to President Ho Chi Minh is an evidence of this double-dealing policy of the U.S.," Hanoi said.

Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The Commons justice committee Tuesday urged the federal government to establish a super safety board to set and enforce standards for virtually all cars sold in Canada.

The public board will be charged with the responsibility for developing "at the earliest possible date" safety standards of design, construction and equipment for all cars made or imported in Canada.

"Vehicles not complying with such standards would not be permitted to be used in interprovincial or international transportation," the committee said in a report to the Commons.

Committee chairman J. P. Cameron (L—High Park) explained this meant cars not incorporating the safety features would be prevented from moving from province to province.

Canadian Record 'Astounding'

Child Death Rate Worst

OTTAWA (CP) — More children are killed per capita in Canada than in any other country in the world, a medical professor told delegates to the maternal and child health conference Tuesday.

Dr. John Read of Queen's University said the accident death rate was 118 for every 100,000 children in the one-to-four age group.

This "astounding" record was the worst for any country in which reliable statistics were available, Czechoslovakia was second with a rate of 103, but these were the only two countries with a rate more than 100.

Dr. Helen Wallace of the University of California school of public health told doctors, nurses and social workers attending the conference more Canadian children died from accidents than any other cause.

This included traffic mishaps, falls, burns and poisonings. Oral contraceptives now were high on the list of accidental poisoning agents. The injuring agent was usually something attractive to the child — such as a bright pill — and children were usually "outrageously hungry" at the time they suffered injury.

The most dangerous times in the day were one-hour periods just before meal times, when the child was hungry, tired and hyperactive, and the mother preoccupied with food preparations.

Power Rate News March 31

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Hydro and Power Authority will announce March 31 whether its rates will go up, down or remain the same.

Chairman Dr. Gordon Strum said Tuesday. He disclosed the date for an announcement while commenting on a prediction by Opposition Leader Strachan that there would be a power rate increase.

New Premier Under Arrest

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (UPI) — Troops arrested Sierra Leone's new Prime Minister Siaka Probyn Stevens Tuesday only minutes after he had taken his oath of office and placed the west African nation under martial law, Freetown radio said Tuesday.

The reports indicated military commander Brig. David Lansana had taken control of the 28,000-square-mile country, sandwiched between the republics of Guinea and Liberia on the Gulf of Guinea.

Stevens leads the All People's Congress Party which defeated the ruling Sierra Leone People's Party of former prime minister Sir Albert Margai in elections last weekend.

Stevens' party won 32 of the 66 contested seats, Margai's won 27 and independents took seven.

Governor-General Sir Henry Lightfoot-Boston, who appoints the other 12 House of Assembly members, advised Stevens to form a coalition government with Margai but Stevens refused.

Lansana, an old Stevens foe, made the arrest as Stevens left the swearing-in ceremony and immediately proclaimed martial law.

Our Man In Britain

Thundering Snows Kill 11

ZURICH (UPI) — The heaviest March snowfall in 16 years Tuesday sent avalanches thundering into Swiss alpine valleys, crushing homes and disrupting traffic. At least nine people were killed and three injured.

The avalanches struck a wooden shed on the Oberalp Pass where seven workers employed on a dam construction site had sought refuge. A rescue team flown in by helicopter dug them out — five of them dead and two injured.

NGERDAL, Norway — Two Swedish miners, a man and a woman, perished in an avalanche close to the Swedish border near here.

I'm for Fluorides Bennett Says

Premier Bennett said Tuesday he will recommend government action to promote fluoridation of B.C. water supplies.

"I am a strong supporter of fluoridation," the premier told the House during debate on a Liberal amendment that would allow fluoridation referendums to pass on a 50 per cent majority.

"I will recommend the department of education give more education on fluoridation," he said. "I will recommend fluoridation be placed before a committee of the legislature for study at the next session."

However, the House defeated the amendment after Mr. Bennett said, "If people can introduce something like this on a 50 per cent majority they can turn around and repeal it on a 50 per cent majority just as easily."

Driving Charge Change

Government Backs Down

Criticism from both sides of the House forced the government to make an on-the-floor amendment to a government bill in the legislature Tuesday.

The opposition vigorously attacked a proposed amendment to the Motor Vehicle Act which would have inserted the words "the justice may convict for an offence under this act disclosed by the evidence taken at the trial in substitution for a conviction under this section (Section 138 of the Motor Vehicle Act)."

Gordon Dowding (NDP, Burnaby-Edmonds) said the change would entitle a judge to hear a case and make a change in a charge under the act to suit the evidence he had heard.

Allan Williams (L, West Vancouver-Hove Sound) said it was a "catch-all" amendment.

Ernie Lecours (SC, Richmond) said the careless driving section "makes no allowance for human error."

"We should be trying to protect the public a bit more," Mr. Lecours said.

NO IMPROVEMENT

Attorney-General Bonner said the intention had been to improve the act. But because of the criticism the section concerned would be withdrawn.

"It's obvious from this discussion here we're not improving it," Mr. Bonner said.

However, other amendments to the act, including provisions prohibiting television receivers in the front seats of cars, and a new regulation which would prevent persons under 18 from owning cars without parental consent, received third and final reading.

Boiling Pot Cooling Off

By KLAUS MUENTER

NORTH COWICHAN —

The boiling pot of the controversial municipal hall issue has been pushed aside for a while to simmer down. Except for two councillors, North Cowichan council Tuesday afternoon backed down and followed Coun. George Whittaker's plea to wait two weeks before finally confirming the acceptance of a tender for the new municipal hall.

A total of 31 taxpayers, most of whom were standing along the walls of the municipal council chamber, prompted Reeve Donald Morton to remark how badly more space is needed.

Councillors Gerry Smith and Reginald Clegg opposed the council decision. The reeve stressed again no irregularities had been done in connection with the new municipal hall.

BACKED UP

He added his statement is being backed up by the municipal solicitor. The special meeting had been called to confirm the decision of the finance committee in recommending the acceptance of the lowest tender.

It was received from G. H. Wheaton of Victoria for the construction of the hall for the sum of $224,100, and $13,500 for the cost of parking and driveway work.

The bid will be valid for four weeks.

GOOD BID

The reeve described the bid as "exceptionally good" and the hall could be built by Aug. 15.

Coun. Whittaker, who announced Monday he would take legal action "to prevent the illegal acceptance of a tender," repeated his charges that "this thing has been pushed through too quietly."

He said the two-week waiting period will give people an opportunity to form an opinion as to the proposed hall and its location north of Duncan.

HIS PLAN

If the consensus is favorable "I shall withdraw any action and apologize to council," he said.

At earlier council meetings, Coun. Whittaker opposed the location of the hall.

He claimed it would inconvenience many taxpayers in the south, as the proposed site is more than three miles north of Duncan.

To a query from Coun. Margaret Robertson when the first money was set aside for the municipal hall, Reeve Morton replied, "Five years ago, I ran on the ticket that we would open a fund for a new municipal hall."

He added this municipal hall account had been passed four times every year by council.

IMPERSONAL

Coun. Whittaker emphasized his action against the municipal hall is impersonal but he put his duty as councillor above any friendship because "I think at this time it is important that people know what is going on."

He said he would have taken a similar action if the hall had been proposed for an area closer to Duncan and his request to postpone the final decision, for two weeks is neither an ultimatum nor a threat.

The reeve warned Coun. Whittaker he would not have yielded to threats. "But I accept your resolution in good faith," and Coun. Dennis Hogan agreed. "Coun. Whittaker has assured us he is not threatening and I support the postponement wholeheartedly."

Beauty Finds Company

Fishing Marble River at Hall's Park near Jesse Landing is quite an experience, according to Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Cooke who stay at camp at Beaver Cove, not far from Alice Arm. Picture was taken by Mr. Cooke around noon on an unidentified angler tried for his big one in river's beautiful water. River runs from Alice Lake. There's good new camp ground developed by B.C. Forest Service in that area.

Around the Island

Magic Carpets Fail

NANAIMO — Oriental rugs can still be responsible for a journey.

Faisal Abdel Bari Mohammed Darwish Shawar, 19, a Jordan-born rug merchant, found this out to his dismay.

He was fined $150 or 30 days in jail, for selling the rugs without a licence. He paid the fine.

As a result of a complaint of a housewife Monday morning, the charge was made, and he and his carpets both appeared in court.

He had been warned by police two weeks ago that he would get into this trouble when he tried to sell oriental rugs at cut-rate prices to officers on duty.

CHERAMINUS — Eleanor Lynch of Nanaimo is in good condition at the Chemainus

General Hospital with injuries she received when the car she was driving was involved in a rear-end collision at the Trans-Canada Highway and River Road.

CAMPBELL RIVER — Steve

Leopold Anderson, 56, who was born in Sweden, died here. He was a resident for 15 years. He will be cremated today at Sands Mortuary, Victoria.

NANAIMO — Two policemen were injured when their patrol car collided with a vehicle driven by Thomas McGladery, 23, 601 Milton Street. The accident occurred on Westwood Road. McGladery and passenger Katherine Lingquist were hurt.

CHERAMINUS — Lumber exports from Chemainus and Crofton ports decreased sharply to 17,227,579 board feet in February this year from 26,854,000 board feet during the same period in 1966. A total of 2,600,078 board feet of logs were exported to the States during the past month. Pulp and newspaper export increased to 21,457 tons and 4,035 tons respectively during February, 1967, from 8,470 tons and 2,263 tons during the same month in 1966.

Gordon Dowling (NDP, Burnaby-Edmonds) failed to convince the government the membership of the Pollution Control Board should consist entirely of people who are not government employees.

Ernest Hall (NDP, Surrey) tried without success to get the deflation of the ward pollution amended in the bill to include air pollution as well as that of land and water.

Opposition Bids Overruled

The government overruled two opposition bids to amend the new Pollution Control Act, which passed the clause-by-clause committee stage debate in the legislature Tuesday.

Gordon Dowling (NDP, Burnaby-Edmonds) failed to convince the government the membership of the Pollution Control Board should consist entirely of people who are not government employees.

Ernest Hall (NDP, Surrey) tried without success to get the deflation of the ward pollution amended in the bill to include air pollution as well as that of land and water.

So There's No Misunderstanding

City Hall Compares Taxes

DUNCAN — To prevent any misunderstandings the city hall has issued a comparison of taxes and utilities between the city of Duncan and areas near city boundaries.

Announcing the figures Mayor Jack Dobson said, "The lack of services is restricting the growth in our area."

He added the city is willing to take in additional areas. According to released statistics utilities on property assessed at $7,500 are $483 in the city.

For a similar property at various locations in the North Cowichan municipality, utilities would be $479, Quamichan Heights; $429, Wall and Oak Bank subdivisions; $479, Wilson Avenue and Sherman Road areas.

City Clerk Gordon Berry said, "Wilson and Sherman Road areas do not have sewers at present."

"The amounts shown are the approximate charges if sewers were to be installed by the municipality."

North Cowichan Reeve Donald Morton said the figures assumed by the city for the latter areas are about $20 too high for sewer rental and sewer frontage.

Taxes for a $7,500 property would be $337 in the city and $322 in all affected areas in the municipality.

For a $5,000 property, taxes in the city would amount to $265 and in the areas of the municipality mentioned above, $215.

Utilities for a property with a taxable assessed value of $5,000 would cost $350 in the city and in the North Cowichan areas in question, $371, $322 and $371, respectively.

Reeve Morton again remarked the last figures would have to be reduced for a fair comparison.

Mr. Berry said to answer many queries received and to avoid confusion the city is releasing the facts.

$3,000,000 Plan

Paint-Up Job Fools Group

By AENOLD OLSON

NANAIMO—What started out to be a simple paint-up campaign ended as a portrait of a major downtown redevelopment here Tuesday.

Fritz Schultz's model of what Nanaimo's main shopping districts should look like drew no adverse comment at a meeting of businessmen and property owners at Credit Union Hall.

The group, called the Downtown Development Committee, has been drawing up plans for downtown redevelopment for the past several months.

Mr. Schultz's model, representing a possible $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 venture, was displayed.

His concluding remarks probably were the sentiments of all. "Anyone saying, 'How can we afford it?' should be asked, 'How can we afford not to do it?'" he said.

His model represented the business portion of Nanaimo from Terminal to Bastion streets, and included the Gordon Street Parkade and Commercial Avenue.

It represented, in the words of Dr. Gordon Bell, committee chairman, "many thousands of dollars," as a donation to civic improvement.

SHOPPING MALL

It proposed a shopping mall on Commercial; two multi-level parking garages, and a civic centre-theatre complex, built over the present parkade.

It illustrated where present buildings could be renovated to blend into the scheme.

It was only a preliminary proposal, Mr. Schultz emphasized.

SOME CHANGES

"If I had to do this thing again today, already there would be some changes," he said.

"The biggest mistake we can make is to plaster our waterfront with high-rises," he explained as his reason for modifying models of the parking garages.

"We submit that the proposal is entirely realistic, with a sound development of our fast-growing community," he added. The reason Mr. Schultz stressed parking-space development is that Nanaimo, in his opinion, needs three times the parking space it currently has.

Car Case

Theft Try Fails

By MARIE CADORETTE

DUNCAN — If you've stolen a car and the darn thing doesn't run, go back and steal others. This is what two boys figured late Monday night.

Brian Kenneth Robinson, 19, 5843 Banks Road, Duncan, and Carson Andrew Alexander, also 19, Lantzville, broke into a Duncan garage used car lot.

The youths stole several sets of car keys and a station wagon.

But the station wagon broke down and the boys abandoned it on George Street.

They returned to the car lot for two more cars.

CAR ABANDONED

Alexander later left his car on Canada Avenue, hitchhiked to the Trans-Canada Highway where he was met by Robinson. The two were later stopped north of River Road by Chemainus police.

Robinson was immediately arrested.

Shortly after Alexander was apprehended coming out of the bush.

Both youths pleaded guilty to breaking, entering and theft and were remanded in custody until April 11 for a pre-sentence report.

FINED $50

In another case, a Cowichan Station youth was fined $50 for walking on the wrong side of the road.

He was charged as the result of an accident Sept. 10, 1966.

Robert John Bruce had pleaded not guilty before Magistrate George Hallett.

A loader operator, Mervin Edward Pywell, Glenora, testified Bruce had been walking on the road about an hour before the accident.

ANOTHER WITNESS

Another witness, John Douglas Latta, said, "He was at least in the middle of our lane."

Latta was a passenger of a vehicle driven by Jim Ryan the morning of the accident on the Koksilah stretch of the Trans-Canada Highway.

Special Nursing Program

Daily Care Hits Home

COURTENAY — The home care program in the Comox Valley was the subject of one section in the annual report of the Upper Island Health Unit.

Formal program for nursing care of patients at home were established some years ago in Courtenay-Comox (School District 71) and Campbell River (School District 72).

The public health nurses carry out certain nursing procedures and rehabilitative exercises at the request of the patient's private physician. This permits persons to return home from hospital earlier, or in some cases to stay out of hospital and still receive the necessary treatments or supervision.

Inm any cases just being at home has contributed to their general well-being and recovery from illness or disability. This service is provided seven days a week from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. From Monday to Friday care is given by the regular nurses, while on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays it is given by the weekend relief nurses. The doctors made good use of the program, especially in the Courtenay-Comox area where the total number of persons receiving service increased from 52 (1965) to 80 (1966). However, there were more short term patients, as fewer treatments were given.

SAME NUMBER

At Campbell River the number of patients, 27, remained unchanged from the previous year but more treatments were given. Of the total number of persons receiving care 63 per cent were 60 years of age and over. It is the elderly who are more prone to the chronic and disabling diseases. It is interesting to note that at year end, 25, or one third of all patients seen, were still on the program and will, therefore, continue to receive nursing services.

Press Invited This Evening

Hospital Wants More News

PORT ALBERNI — Invitations have been extended to news media to attend a special press conference this evening in the board room of the West Coast General Hospital.

At the annual meeting of the hospital board recently considerable dissatisfaction was expressed with the coverage of hospital activities received, from the board's viewpoint, and with the paucity of information received, from the viewpoint of members on the press.

Last week Maurice Landry was again chosen chairman, Ald. Charles Blair of Alberni, vice-chairman, and Harvey Taylor, secretary-treasurer, at a special meeting of the board members.

One of the first official acts of the new executive has been to arrange the special press conference, which will provide information concerning the long-waited construction and renovation project, and the operation of the hospital in general.

While the question of regular press attendance at hospital board meetings has not yet been resolved, the board and administrators will welcome any questions from newsmen at the conference, the invitation states.

Post Office Closed For Good Friday

PORT ALBERNI — Post offices in the Alberni Valley will be closed on Good Friday, although mails will be despatched into and out of the Valley as usual. There will be no letter carrier or rural route deliveries Friday, but all postal services will be as usual on Saturday and on Easter Monday.

Stores in the downtown area will be open on Thursday evening till 9 p.m., closed on Good Friday. Weekend visitors should also note that stores in downtown areas of both cities will be closed on Easter Monday, not because of Easter, but because Monday is the customary closing day for Valley merchants.

Arbitration Ruling Appealed

DUNCAN — The Cowichan School Board has been served a writ by the Cowichan District Teachers' Association.

The association is appealing to the B.C. Supreme Court against an arbitration board ruling in December.

The arbitration board refused to listen to a case for a review of administrative salaries to six high school principals.

The chairman ruled the school board and teachers are party to an agreement leaving these salaries alone until the end of 1970.

Dr. Neil Downing, school board chairman, said Monday the board's case will be handled by the B.C. School Trustees' Association.

Officers Elected

PORT ALBERNI — The following officers were elected at a recent meeting of Branch 55, Royal Canadian Legion in Port Alberni: Joseph Trail, president; Don McIntosh, first vice-president; second vice-president, A. G. Damary; secretary, Mrs. Patricia Gatenby; treasurer, C. J. Harmon; adjutant-at-arms, Ray Therault.

Installation ceremonies and dinner will be held April 1 in the Port Alberni Legion hall on Fourth Avenue South.

Operation Doorstep

Mobile Vans Arrive

COURTENAY — Operation doorstep is visiting Comox Valley.

Two Christmas Seal mobile vans will begin a district-to-district survey of 21,000 residents Tuesday.

***

The initial phase of the program started three weeks ago with two Operation Doorstep skin tests to the 5,327 school children in School District 71.

From this number 142 have shown a positive reaction, about one per cent higher than the provincial average. This indicates they have been infected by someone with active tuberculosis and have been recalled for chest X-ray. A positive reaction does not mean a person has TB, but rather shows he has been infected by someone with

***

The community phase of the program runs until Saturday, April 22, covering residents of Cumberland, Courtenay, Comox, Fanny Bay, Denman Island, Union Bay, Royston, Black Creek, Merville, as well as the Canadian Forces Base at Comox.

BANK DEAL PASSED

By RON COLLISTER

Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — A five-year club hanging over Mercantile Bank has emerged as the Sharp-Gordon deal to cope with the troublesome U.S.-owned bank, and Walter Gordon has emerged the winner over Mitchell Sharp in their personal fight.

The deal, disclosed and approved in the Commons Tuesday, caused Conservative Marcel Lambert to say: "This is a sentence of death over Mercantile."

Mr. Mackasey, a Liberal MP who went to New York to work out an earlier deal with the Mercantile's owners, First National City Bank, said: "I do not know what effect this might have on me as a politician, but I do not play dirty politics."

Mr. Mackasey voted against his party on the amendment that placed the club over Mercantile.

He did so, he said, because it was "diametrically opposed" to what was accepted unanimously by the finance committee two weeks ago.

The deal is sure to raise a hurricane of protest in Citibank's executive suite in New York.

The amendment was moved by Liberal backbencher

Milton Klein of Montreal, who is not a member of the finance committee that labored over the draft bill for months.

The draft bill, as approved by the committee, gave Citibank five years, until December of 1972, to unload 75 per cent of the Mercantile shares to Canadians.

The Klein amendment gives the government the power to act any time between now and next December.

Citibank could ignore the government's orders only by agreeing to restate its liabilities to 20 times its assets. And it has already passed that figure.

Secret Peace Effort Disclosed

Johnson and Ho Sour Pen Pals

Ho said no ...

to Johnson invitation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson made an unsuccessful personal appeal to Ho Chi Minh last month for direct, unpublicized peace talks between the U.S. and North Vietnam, it was disclosed Tuesday.

Johnson returned from a two-day Vietnam strategy conference on Guam Tuesday night and acknowledged what he called "regrettable rebuffs to a genuine effort to move toward peace" in his exchange with Ho and the North Vietnamese leader's contacts with other world figures.

"Nevertheless, we shall persevere in our efforts to find an honorable peace; until that is achieved, we shall continue to do our duty in Vietnam," he said.

NEVER SURRENDER
In what was believed to have been the first direct exchange between the two leaders, Johnson told Ho at the start of the Lunar New Year bombing pause in Vietnam Feb. 8 that he could not accept Hanoi's demand for an unconditional halt in U.S. air raids.

Ho rejected Johnson's message the day after the air strikes resumed Feb. 13. "Vietnam will never submit to talks under the threat of bombing," he said.

TOKYO (UPI)—North Vietnam, commenting on Ho's rejection of Johnson's offer for direct peace talks, charged Tuesday that the American proposal was evidence of "double-dealing" by the United States.

BULLETINS

LONDON (AP)—Police early today captured a burglar who took gold coins and other property from Princess Margaret's home while the occupants were sleeping. The arrest was made in bushes behind Kensington Palace and the loot was recovered.

HALIFAX (CP)—Two men stole an 84-foot dragger early today from a wharf at Shelburne, N.S., and headed out to sea. A search began. A dragger was stolen last Friday in nearby Lockport and a single suspect was caught Tuesday.

Gordon Dowling (NDP, Burnaby-Edmonds) said the change would entitle a judge to hear a case and make a change in a charge under the act to suit the evidence he had heard.

Allan Williams (L, West Vancouver-Howe Sound) said it was a "catch-all" amendment.

Ernie Lecours (SC, Richmond) said the careless driving section "makes no allowance for human error."

"We should be trying to protect the public a bit more," Mr. Lecours said.

NO IMPROVEMENT

Attorney-General Bonner said the intention had been to improve the act. But because of the criticisms the section concerned would be withdrawn.

"It's obvious from this discussion here we're not improving it," Mr. Bonner said.

However, other amendments to the act, including provisions prohibiting television receivers in the front seats of cars, and a new regulation which would prevent persons under 18 from owning cars without parental consent, received third and final reading.

I'm for Fluorides Bennett Says

Premier Bennett said Tuesday he will recommend government action to promote fluoridation of B.C. water supplies.

"I am a strong supporter of fluoridation," the premier told the House during debate on a Liberal amendment that would allow fluoridation referendums to pass on a 50 per cent majority.

"I will recommend the department of education give more education on fluoridation," he said. "I will recommend fluoridation be placed before a committee of the legislature for study at the next session."

However, the House defeated the amendment after Mr. Bennett said, "If people can introduce something like this on a 50 per cent majority they can turn around and repeal it on a 60 per cent majority just as easily."

Driving Charge Change

Government Backs Down

Criticism from both sides of the House forced the government to make an on-the-floor amendment to a government bill in the legislature Tuesday.

The opposition vigorously attacked a proposed amendment to the Motor Vehicle Act which would have inserted the words "the justice may convict for an offence under this act disclosed by the evidence taken at the trial in substitution for a conviction under this section (Section 138 of the Motor Vehicle Act)."

Nader before U.S. Senate committee

Nader Wants More Canada 'Needs More'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ralph Nader accused the U.S. government's traffic safety agency Tuesday of moving with "agonizing timidity" and said it has issued inadequate safety standards for 1968 cars.

He assailed the automobile industry and the national agency alike in testimony prepared for the Senate commerce committee.

"With very few exceptions," Nader said, "these standards did not advance the level of existing safety beyond what would have been the case without the law."

"Among the worst performing vehicles on the road today are ones which can meet or exceed the standards set for the 1968 models," he said.

Nader, whose book Unsafe at Any Speed made him a central figure in the drive for passage of the law, said industry pressures "set the temperature for the kind of standards which issued forth with such agonizing timidity."

OTTAWA — The Commons justice committee Tuesday urged the federal government to establish a super safety board to set and enforce standards for virtually all cars sold in Canada.

The public board will be charged with the responsibility for developing "at the earliest possible date" safety standards of design, construction and equipment for all cars made or imported in Canada.

"Vehicles not complying with such standards would not be permitted to be used in interprovincial or international transportation," the committee said in a report to the Commons.

Committee chairman J. P. Cameron (L-High Park) later explained this meant cars not incorporating the safety features would be prevented from moving from province to province.

55 Committee Votes

Forces Unity Over Hurdle

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons defence committee after 55 formal votes Thursday night approved the armed forces unification bill. (See also Page 2.)

The committee then went immediately into closed session to discuss its report to the Commons, expected to be made today when the bill is returned to the House with amendments.

The Commons must still give the legislation clause-by-clause study and third and final reading. The bill then goes to the Senate.

Will Take Months

Gordon Churchill, former Conservative defence minister, said the bill "might" get through the Commons in May or June. But he proposed instead the government put it in "cold storage."

Defence Minister Hellyer said it will take at least four months before the bill can be proclaimed law after it clears Parliament.

It would take this long to draft new regulations based on the bill.

The committee held 55 sittings since Feb. 7 and heard 23 major witnesses. Serving officers who testified were for the bill, retired officers were against.

The Conservatives fought the bill every inch of the way, voting against even the preamble and the title.

The vote on the bill as a whole was 14 to 8 with Harold Winch (NDP-Vancouver East) and Andrew Brewin (NDP-Toronto Greenwood) voting in favor with 12 Liberals.

The Conservatives objected to each clause in the 18-clause bill which mentioned a single force and deleted references to the navy, army and air force.

Our Man In Britain

Power Rate News March 31

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. Hydro and Power Authority will announce March 31 whether its rates will go up, down or remain unchanged, co-chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum said Tuesday.

He disclosed the date for an announcement while commenting on a prediction by Opposition Leader Strachan that there would be a power rate increase.

New Premier Under Arrest

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (UPI)—Troops arrested Sierra Leone's new Prime Minister Siaka Probyn Stevens Tuesday only minutes after he had taken his oath of office and placed the west African nation under martial law, Freetown radio said Tuesday.

The reports indicated military commander Brig. David Lansana had taken control of the 28,000-square-mile country, sandwiched between the republics of Guinea and Liberia on the Gulf of Guinea.

Thundering Snows Kill 11

ZURICH (UPI)—The heaviest March snowfall in 16 years Tuesday sent avalanches thundering into Swiss alpine valleys, crushing homes and disrupting traffic. At least nine people were killed and three injured. The avalanches struck a wooden shed on the Oberalp Pass where seven workers employed on a dam construction site had sought refuge. A rescue team flown in by helicopter dug them out — five of them dead and two injured.

Stevens leads the All People's Congress Party which defeated the ruling Sierra Leone People's Party of former prime minister Sir Albert Margai in elections last weekend.

Stevens' party won 32 of the 66 contested seats, Margai's won 27 and independents took seven.

Governor-General Sir Henry Lightfoot-Boston, who appoints the other 12 House of Assembly members, advised Stevens to form a coalition government with Margai but Stevens refused.

Lansana, an old Stevens foe, made the arrest as Stevens left the swearing-in ceremony and immediately proclaimed martial law.

Child Death Rate Worst

OTTAWA (CP)—More children are killed per capita in Canada than in any other country in the world, a medical professor told delegates to the maternal and child health conference Tuesday.

Dr. John Read of Queen's University said the accident death rate was 118 for every 100,000 children in the one-to-four age group.

This "astounding" record was included in traffic mishaps, falls, burns and poisonings. Oral contraceptives now were high on the list of accidental poisoning agents.

The injurious agent was usually something attractive to the child — such as a bright pill — and children were usually "acutely hungry" at the time they suffered injury.

The most dangerous times in the day were one-hour periods just before meal times, when the child was hungry, tired and hyperactive, and the mother preoccupied with food preparations.

Dr. Helen Wallace of the University of California school of public health told doctors, nurses and social workers attending the conference more Canadian children died from accidents than any other cause.

This included traffic mishaps, falls, burns and poisonings. Oral contraceptives now were high on the list of accidental poisoning agents.
